Lancaster Farming

Vol. 44 No. 5 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, December 5, 1998 | $29.50 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

Mount Joy farmers Terry and Belle Frey and son Adam pose with bales of tobacco ready for sale. Most tobacco farmers have not sold their 1997 crop and are in the process of stripping the 1998 crop. Efforts are underway to form a Pennsylvania marketing cooperative to help bring southern buyers back into the local market.

Environmentalists Want Moratorium On Hog Farms

(Part 2)

UNION DEPOSIT (Dauphin Co.) — Environmentalists dominated testimony provided the USDA and the U.S. EPA during a recent 'listening meeting' held at the Sheraton Inn Harrisburg East in Union Deposit.

The USDA and EPA have jointly issued a draft of a proposal outlining how the two agencies would work together using interpretations of existing authorities to get livestock farmers across the nation to have comprehensive nutrient management planning done and implemented on their farms by 2008.

It is called the USDA/EPA Joint Unified Strategy for Animal Feeding Operations (AFO).

In last week's issue of Lancaster Farming, the presentation of the proposal during the meeting was outlined, and 'listening panel' members and technical panel members were reported.

There were 23 people who had signed up to testify during the meeting (which conflicted with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau annual convention held in Hershey), although several backed out from taking the floor, in deference to submitting written testimony directly to federal agencies.

The meeting and testimony was documented through the contracted services of a court reporter. A draft of the proceeding's transcript was used as reference for this report. A final version needs to be completed.

The USDA/EPA effort has a goal of receiving comments on the draft proposal for a Unified Strategy by Jan. 19.

Three-year-old Amanda Schrecongost, Creekside, Indiana County, joins national celebrities sporting milk moustaches. The Mini Milk Mustache Contest gives kids, ages one to five, a chance to become the next milk mustache model. The contest is helping parents "get the picture" that milk and milk group foods are among the best calcium sources for growing bodies.

Snap a picture of your child wearing a milk mustache and your child's response in 10 words or less to the question, "Why do you drink milk?"

In addition to the national selection, finalists from each state will receive prizes. All entrants will recipe a "Sing-A-Long Milk Melodies" audio tape and a "Milk and Me" educational booklet while supplies last. The contest ends Dec. 15.

For information on how to enter your half pint in the national contest, call 1-800-WHY MILK. Turn to page B10 to read why milk is Amanda's favorite drink.

Farmers Ready To Vote On Tobacco Marketing Auctions

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — The attempt to form a Pennsylvania tobacco marketing cooperative centered in Lancaster County auctions has progressed to the point where 200 farmers with a total of 3 million pounds of tobacco have paid $50 memberships and the formation committee has gone on record to recommend the auctions be started. But the total membership (those who have paid their dues) must have the opportunity to vote approval before anything more will be done. The opportunity for this vote will be given on Friday morning, December 11, at Harvest Drive Restraunt located south of Route 340 just east of Intercoruse. Starting time is 11 a.m.

At present most tobacco farmers still have their 1997 crop sitting in the sheds unsold and they are beginning to strip the new crop with still no reports of buying activity.

Special Pages/Advertising/News Deadlines For Holidays, Farm Show Issues

A number of special pages are planned for Lancaster Farming in the coming weeks. In addition, the Christmas and New Year holidays bring special deadline schedules, too.

But first look on the inside of the back cover of Section A in this issue for the new seven-day weather forecast for Lancaster Farming's major coverage area. This special service to farmers will continue each week in this location.

In the Dec. 19 issue, we plan to have the semi-annual newsletter for Pennsylvania DHIA. Here the association will present their review of the year and bring news of special interest to their members as well as to all dairy farmers. In the Dec. 26 issue we dedicate a few pages to the introduction of the Pennsylvania Young Farmer convention to be hosted by the Manheim Chapter in early February. We will have registration forms and an extensive review of the program.

The issues for the first two weeks in January will have news and advertising messages related to the Keystone Farm Show and the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

December also brings the Christmas and New Year holidays. For Lancaster Farming this means many of the advertising and news deadlines will need to be early to accommodate the publication of the Dec. 26, Jan. 2, and Jan. 8 issues. Some deadlines fall in the week prior to the week of publication.

These deadlines are as follows:

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Dec 02, 1998
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY
Wheat bids were supported by a technical correction after recent declines and light overnight export demand. Traders also are concerned about a cold snap expected next week in the winter wheat growing areas. Corn bids were slightly lower due to light export demad this week and a slow down in farmer selling. Soybean bids regained some of yesterday's losses on indications that soybean planting in parts of Brazil has been halted by dry weather. This could reduce their 98-99 production estimate. Wheat steady to 4 cents higher. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum mixed. Soybeans 5 to 10 cents higher.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
DECEMBER 02, 1998

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was often noted as stagnant. Seller offerings were in a range of adequate to readily available and were in the closer balance on the under 3 pound sizes. Heavier weights, particularly 4 pound sizes were difficult to place. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were mostly heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were unchanged at 58 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was barely steady to weak. In the parts complex, volumes and items available varied from plant to plant, but were fully sufficient to handle the generally light and spotty buying interest.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

ST. NICHOLAS, DEC. 7.

ANCIENT VOWS AND SUPERSTITIONS

At medieval feasts, a roasted peacock, with its feathers and head intact, was what a woman of high position served. Knights would put a hand onto the peacock's back and make a vow for the coming year, much like our New Year's resolutions. Sometimes the peacock was baked in a pie, the head and tail protruding from opposite sides of the crust. Ancient Christmas superstitions include: Groom a horse with a washcloth on Christmas and it will grow fat; Christmas Day babies have the gift of prophecy; and it's bad luck to wash a Christmas present before it is given or wear new shoes on Christmas.

Virtue and happiness are mother and daughter.

TIP OF THE WEEK

WINTER CHICKEN-MUSHROOM SOUP

- 2 teaspoons olive oil
- 1 cup peeled, sliced carrots
- 1 cup peeled, chopped onions
- 1 cup peeled, sliced leeks
- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1 teaspoon fresh (or 1/2 teaspoon dry) thyme
- 2 pounds mushrooms, sliced
- 6 cups chicken broth
- salt and pepper, to taste
- 4 teaspoons minced chives, for garnish

Heat oil, add vegetables (except mushrooms) and sauté. Stir in thyme and mushrooms and cook 5 minutes. Add broth and seasonings. Simmer covered for 30 minutes. Puree soup in a blender and serve hot, garnished with chives. (If desired, the mushrooms can be sautéed separately and added after the soup is pureed.)

Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A winter's fog will freeze a dog.

When winter is not early, it will not be late.

December changeable and mild, the whole winter will remain a child.

If the first snow sticks to the trees, it foretells a bountiful harvest.

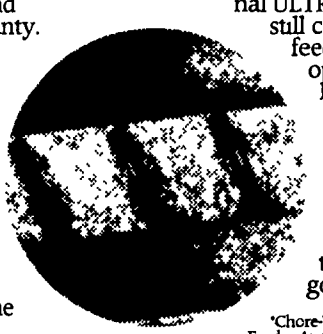
How Do You Improve On The Best?

In the case of Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeder, you do it by beefing up the auger wire and extending the product warranty.

Chore-Time's new and improved ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeder uses our exclusive round-wire auger. It is nearly 10% heavier than our original ULTRAFLO®. And that means strength and years more running time for you! We're so confident of it that we've warranted the auger for twice* as long as the old model.



What's more, you still get all the features you valued in the original ULTRAFLO® Feeder. You can still count on unparalleled feed savings, economical operation, and ULTRAFLO's remixing action which eliminates feed separation.

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeder—contact us today for more information on how the best just got better!

*Chore-Time's New ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeder Auger has a 10-year prorated warranty

In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities

Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth

For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it (Bouvatec Is Available)

For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth

Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation The Ca P ratio in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf

Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix

OPINION

Realistic Butter Prices

With butter back in the good graces of the medical/health food establishment, sales have been steadily increasing over the last few years. But based on the premise of charging what the market will bear, prices for butter have been reported up to nearly $4.00 per pound. One report said prices in New Jersey had reached $5.00 per pound.

Naturally, reports of good milk prices to farmers have been used to justify the increase in price to consumers. But according to Arden Tewksbury, Pro Ag manager, the price to farmers for milk to be manufactured into butter dropped from $13.28 per cwt. in January 1998 to $10.76 per cwt. in May. That is 25-35 cents per gallon. The wholesale price of butter in January was $1.10 per pound. By mid-fall this price had reached over $2.90 per pound in some markets. In the last few weeks, of course, the wholesale price of butter has taken some dramatic declines and is now back around $1.20 per pound.

A recent survey indicates that consumers criticize the high butter prices, but most of them don't blame dairy farmers. More and more consumers are aware of the value of real butter. But if it is over-priced as we have seen in the past, sales drop. We can only hope the distribution system for dairy products will take a realistic profit but price butter according to the cost of the milk paid to farmers for manufacturing, not on what the market will bear.

Now Is The Time

To Return DOPP Sign up Form

If you have received information on the Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP), you must return your sign up form by December 11. DOPP is a program to help dairy farmers understand the value of risk management and acquire the tools to practice it.

The key concept is risk management. This program sets the tone for government programs for the 21st century. It will be important for farmers to understand options, hedging with options and valuing options.

DOPP lets you put words into action. DOPP will give you hands on learning experience in using PUT options to protect your milk price at a very small cost. Read Secretary Glickman's letter and consider signing up for the benefits of this program. Remember, this form is only a commitment of interest in the program.

You may withdraw at anytime without any cost or penalty. If you are in a DOPP county, you must return the sign up form by December 11, 1998 in order to be eligible to participate.

To Feed Your Ram

Rams should have a body condition score of 3.5 to 4 before the beginning of the breeding season, according to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent. A body condition score of 1 is thin and 5 is obese. Once turned in with the ewes for breeding, rams spend very little time eating. They can lose up to 12 per cent of their body weight during the 45 day breeding period. That equates to 30 pounds for a 250 pound ram.

Poor nutrition is a major cause of ram mortality. In many cases, forage alone is not adequate nutrition for placing rams in proper body condition for the breeding season. At the very least, rams should be evaluated for body condition six weeks before breeding.

Thin rams should receive grain as a means to increase body weight and condition. It takes 50 days and approximately 2.5 pounds of corn per day in addition to a ram's normal diet to move him from a weight of 225 pounds to 250 pounds.

Mature rams, not in breeding, may be maintained on pasture or wintered on good quality hay. Six to eight pounds of mixed grass and clover hay is sufficient to meet the daily energy requirements of a 250 pound ram. A free choice source of water, salt and minerals should be available at all times.

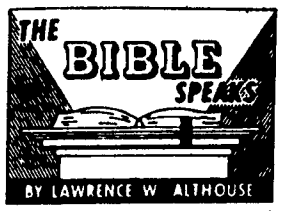
To Caulk for Energy Savings

As much as 30 per cent of the home's heat may be lost through leaks and cracks, reports Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. Doors, windows, chimneys and the foundation of the house offers opportunities for heat leakage. Good quality caulking will help prevent much of this heat loss resulting in a savings of heating dollars. Before starting the job, identify the main areas of heat loss through cracks.

Check spaces where pipes, wires, cables or water faucets enter the house or barn. Check around doors and window frames where the frames meet the wall. Look under window sills and between porches and the main portions of the house for openings.

After identifying where the leaks are, select the proper caulk for the job. Generally look for caulking materials with a high resistance to water and are easy to use.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "It takes courage to push yourself to places that you have never been before, to test your limits and to break through barriers."



BUT WHAT DO YOU SAY?
December 6, 1998

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 1:1-4;
Matthew 16:13-26
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 11:1-10

When my father was still on this side of the gateway we call death, whenever I was visiting with my parents and answered the telephone, people on the other end of the line would invariably say, "Hello, Wilson." Often, when I replied, "No this is his son, Larry," the caller would pause, wondering if my father was playing some kind of joke on them. My voice sounded a great deal like his, even though neither of us particularly thought so.

Even face-to-face, some people would mistake me for him. Others would say, "You don't have to tell me whose son you are." The interesting thing about this is that we didn't really look alike. Yet, when they saw me, many people saw in my visage something that reminded them of my father. I can appreciate their reaction, for I'm often surprised when I look in the mirror and seem to see my father looking back at me.

I have known lots of sons and daughters who looked like and sounded even more like one or both of their parents. Family resemblances can range from slight to absolutely amazing! So, we can appreciate what the writer of Hebrews means when he says: "In many and various ways God spoke of old to our fathers by the prophets; but in these last days he has spoken to us by a Son..." (1:1).

MANY & VARIOUS WAYS

I have literally and figuratively traveled around the world and everywhere I have visited I have found some evidence of God's revelation. Buddhists, Hindus, Moslems, Jews and others, it has seemed to me, have not been denied divine revelation. God has spoken and still continues to speak "in many and various ways" to all his children.

While I deeply respect these other religions and their experience of the one God, I have been personally reinforced in my choice of Christianity, for I cannot help but believe that the fullest understanding of this God whom we all worship comes through his reflection in Jesus Christ. So, when people ask me, "Why Jesus?" it is easy for me to answer: In him is the most that a mortal can ever know of the immortal God.

The writer of Hebrews puts it well: "He reflects the glory of God and bears the very stamp of his nature..." (1:3). To know Jesus is to know as much of God as it is possible for us to know. This is one of the great themes of John's Gospel: "He that has seen me has seen the Father" (14:9). Not in a physical sense, of course, but there is an even greater resemblance between Jesus and the Father than there is between any parents and their offspring.

WHAT IS GOD LIKE?

With people around the globe we share the conviction that there is a God, but when we consider what that God is like, what is his essential nature, it seems that there is no clearer picture, no fuller representation than the God we find revealed in Jesus.

When Jesus gathered his disciples about him at Caesarea Philippi, he asked, "Who do men say that the Son of man is?" Among the popular answers they repeated were, "John the Baptist, Elijah, Jeremiah or one of the prophets" (Matt. 16:14) But his disciples know that he is more than a prophet, and when he asks, "But who do you say that I am," Peter probably answers for the group when he says, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God."

Even these titles do not say it all. The term "Christ" is the English rendering for Christos, the Greek word for Messiah, "the annointed one." Messiahs ranked more highly than prophets. They were special "messengers" from God. "Son of God" implies the closest of filial relationships. But, of course, it doesn't matter what others call him. His question for us is the same that he asked Peter, "But who do YOU say that I am?"

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Dec 2, 1998

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder cattle 1.00-2.00 higher. Demand good for light supply of feeders. Steer and heifer calves 2.00-4.00 higher with very good demand. Rains of half to 1.5 inches crossed the state Sunday evening and this was perfectly timed for continued wheat growth. Wheat north of I-40 continues excellent for grazing and calf market responding accordingly. First freeze for central and southern Oklahoma has not yet occured thus breaking the standing 100 year old record. Bulk supply continues to be calves. Calf quality average to attractive with high percentage blacks, Limousin cross and Charolais cross. Weigh-ups average to gaunt. Calf flesh medium to moderately fleshy; feeders in medium flesh. Slaughter cows steady to 1.00 higher, advance on Boners and Breakers. Slaughter bulls 1.00 lower. Packer demand moderate. Demand very good for thin cows and bred cows returning to the country. This year's drought proven tough on farmers as movement of cows to market has surpassed last year's total cow count by over 8,000 head thus far. 770 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Receipts this week 8,356; last week 6,339; last year 6,761. Supply consisted of 36 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 55 percent calves under 600 lbs; 9 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

did you know leasing is more cost effective than owning?

- Can you lease?
- Why you should lease equipment, vehicles or buildings instead of owning them?
- Are there tax advantages for you?
- What payment schedule does your business need?
- Is leasing more expensive than owning?
- Will leasing complement your estate planning?
- What happens at the end of the lease?

CATTLE: COMPARED TO LAST WEEK'S CLOSING PRICES, SLAUGHTER STEERS AND HEIFERS SOLD FULLY STEADY. SLAUGHTER CATTLE RECEIPTS WERE VERY LIGHT THIS WEEK AS MANY PRODUCERS AND MRKETMEN WERE BUSY WITH THE OPENING OF DEER SEASON. DEFINITE MARKET STRENGTH WAS NOTED ON THE FEW HIGH CHOICE AND PRIME CATTLE THAT WERE AVAILABLE THIS WEEK. WESTERN FEEDLOTS HAD HOPES OF HIGHER PRICES EARLY IN THE WEEK, BUT ENDED UP SETTLING FOR STEADY MONEY AFTER A SHARP FUTURES DROP ON WEDNESDAY. LOCAL HOLSTEIN STEER PRICES CLOSED STEADY TO .50 HIGHER AND A LIMITED TEST OF SLAUGHTER HEIFERS FINISHED STEADY TO 1.00 HIGHER. A GOOD WEEK'S TEST OF SLAUGHTER COWS CLOSED .50 TO MOSTLY 1.00 LOWER AND SLAUGHTER BULLS SOLD 1.00 HIGHER WITH GOOD DEMAND. SUPPLY WAS MADE UP OF AROUND 30 PERCENT SLAUGHTER STEERS, 6 PERCENT SLAUGHTER HEIFERS, 50 PERCENT SLAUGHTER COWS, 6 PERCENT BULLS, WITH THE BALANCE FEEDERS.

Pennsylvania Junior Jersey Exhibitors Shine at NAILE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Sixteen Pennsylvania Junior Jersey exhibitors got a chance of a lifetime as they exhibited at the All-American Jersey show held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition, here.

While in Louisville, youth members helped care for the animals and had the opportunity to attend the junior banquet and funfest, the queen contest and the Pot of God Sale. Many juniors also spent Sunday admiring the pomp and circumstance of the Jersey Jug Futurity.

For Pennsylvania Jersey Queen Emily Norman, the best part of the trip was meeting people.

"We see other people from the state at other shows but you don't really know them," said Norman, "this way, you get to know them."

Although Norman had made the trip to Louisville twice before, this was her first experience showing one of her cows.

"I had fun the whole time. Probably the best thing was being in the ring. I've been there, but I'd never been in the ring."

Seth Peck, or Orrstown, Franklin County exhibited Mongul Hill Saturn Abby, a fall calf, and placed 17th in the junior show and 23rd in the open show.

Two Pennsylvania youth exhibited summer yearlings. Aaron Horst, of Chambersburg, Franklin County, placed sixth in the junior show and 16th in the open show with the Pleasant Valley Galaxy Gwen. Heather Pease, of Susquehanna, Susquehanna County, placed 19th in the junior show and sixth in the open show with Sweet-Peas Renaissance Molly-ET.

In the spring yearling class, Stephanie Carson, of Coal Center, Washington County, placed third in the junior show and fourth in the open show with Carsons Juno Valita. Her animal was also named the best bred and owned in the class. Also showing a spring yearling was Jennifer Vance, of Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland County. Her animal, Cotton Spring Justin Brownie, placed 15th in the junior show and 16th in the open show.

Karen Hubbard, of Dimock, Susquehanna County, and Logan Horst, of Chambersburg, Franklin County, took their winter yearlings to compete in the international event. Hubbard's Cowbells Mister T Daffodil-P placed 12th in the junior show and was recognized with the highest parent protein average award. In the open show, her animal placed 22nd. Horst's Mi-Rose Jinger Ale placed fourth in the junior show and fifth in the open show.

Crystal Rassau, of Sarver, Butler County, placed 14th in the junior show and 26th in the open show with her senior yearling in milk, Rassau Farm Junction Jewel.

Emily Norman, of Liberty, Tioga County, showed junior two year old Normandell Mister T Monika, who placed 13th in the junior show and 11th in the open show.

In the senior two year old class, Kimberly Baker, of Ulysses, Potter County, Lindsay Place, of Meshoppen, Susquehanna County, and Matthew Derr, of Linden, Lycoming County, each exhibited animals. Barker placed 11th in the junior show and 39th in the open show with Jer-Sweet Malcolm Alana, while Place stood 18th in the junior show and 26th in the open show with Cowbells Berretta Tootsie and Derr placed 15th in the junior show and 38th in the open show with Heavens Blessins C Destiny.

Aaron Horst, of Chambersburg, Franklin County and Michael Tierney, of Newton,. Bucks County showed in the junior three-year-old class. Horst's Mi-Rose Regal Frisco placed 15th in the junior show and 41st in the open show. Tierney's Jaspar Renaissance Fragrant placed seventh in the junior show and 28th in the open show.

Amy Jo Hixson, of Scotdale, Westmoreland County placed seventh in the junior show and 17th in the open show with Stoney Hollow Brook Micky, a senior three year old. In the four year old class, Ryan Sprout placed 15th in the junior show and 27th in the open show with J Imperial Panda.

The trip to Louisville could not have been possible without the help of donations from various businesses and individuals. Purina Mills donated one ton of feed which was delivered by Steve and Debbie Cornman. Other contributors included Northeastern Farm Credit, D. Robert and Helene Dreisbach, CRI, Dairy Farmers of America, Next Generation, Pritts Feed Mill, Laurel Highlands Animal Hospital, Reed's Feeds, VA/NC Select Sires, Jersey Shore State Bank, Rebecca and Ted Place and Cornell Brothers Feeds. Also contributing were Scottdale Bank and Trust, United Ag

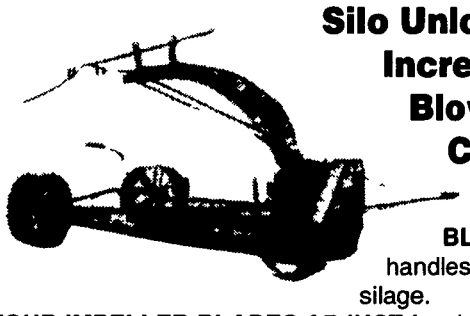
98C or 2100 PATZ SILO UNLOADER
Thru December 31, 1998

Model 98C Gathering-chain Silo Unloader Increases Blowing Capacity



BIGGER BLOWER handles even more silage.
FOUR IMPELLER BLADES ADJUST for close tolerance and efficient blowing.
STAINLESS STEEL blower is available.
Proven cutter-and-claw gathering chain provides high volume delivery in frozen and hard packed silage.
FULLY AUTOMATED UNLOADING because the 98C is self propelled on the silage surface without cable support. No winch watching!
DEPTH-OF-CUT CONTROL ensures high-volume delivery.
AUTOMATIC SELF-LEVELING for uniform silage removal, saving trips up the silo.
ALL PARTS GO UP THE CHUTE to install easily anytime.
FOR 12 TO 30 FT. silos.

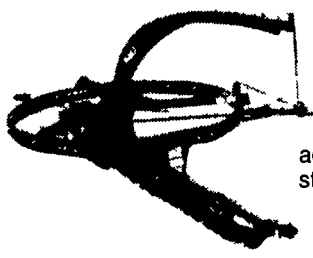
The New Model 2100 Ring Drive SILO UNLOADER



NEW Blower for easy servicing
• Replaceable lower blower band with extra-thick, 1/4-inch steel.
• 4 swinging, adjustable, cupped paddles with stainless steel pins.
• Double-groove pulley with taper bare hub.
NEW An optional independent electric motor rotates the unloader and distributor while filling.
NEW Chain guide wheel mounting to track silo wall closely.
NEW Big 9-foot drive ring flanged to the inside for added strength
Ideal replacement unloader for your suspension:
• 3-cable tripod
NEW • 3-cable hexapod
NEW Distributor to deflect feed when filling for improved packing. For larger silos, a motorized kicker can be added
NEW The Polar Claw is ideal for frozen and hard-packed silage. The cutters-and-claws chain aggressively tears silage loose and quickly moves it to the blower. Fast (634 ft./min.) chain speed for high-volume delivery.

At the end of the public meeting period, a summary of comments is to be created and made available through both agencies.

Respective staff and leadership of the agencies are to review the comments and look at changes for a final Unified Strategy to be issued by the end of 1999, according to officials at the meeting.

The Joint Unified Strategy for AFOs, in brief, is a plan for how the USDA is to work with the EPA to use interpretations of authorities granted under the federal Clean Water Act and the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) to detect, regulate and enforce mandatory comprehensive nutrient management planning of livestock operations.

The plan targets not only high denisty operations sited on small acreage, but also provides for potential mandatory planning for any livestock operation, given the water quality conditions of the watershed in which the farm sits, and the nature and characteristics of the existing operations.

Copies of the proposal are available through both agencies, as well as through their respective Internet homepages.

The meeting was one of 11 held nationally, and Janet Oertly, the state conservationist (Pennsylvania's leader) of the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, said she was happy for Pennsylvania to serve as a site for one of the national meetings.

"We were pleased to be able to host an AFO listening session in Harrisburg," Oertly said. "It's critical to get input from the public on new policies."

Oertly repeated a statement made earlier about the draft proposal — that it does not create any new regulations — although others are not quite sure that is accurate since the Unified Strategy calls for rewriting existing regulations to conform to the program that is to be in place to control farm nutrient management operations.

While some would argue that rewriting — or "revising" as the document states — regulations is lawmaking in essence, others consider that setting agency policy and regulations are seen as a means for implementing laws, not creating them.

"I do want to reiterate that this strategy does not create any new laws or regulations. It coordinates our work and that of EPA," she said.

"NRCS is a strong supporter of agriculture and we will continue to work with landowners on a voluntary basis to help them care for the land," Oertly said.

"We also want to insure some economic stability for their way of life. We recognize the stewardship ethic of the majority of the farm community. Farmers want to do what's best for the land.

"It's our job to help them with the technology to do that. That's also why we feel it's important to maintain the confidentiality of our files and support their efforts to do the right thing," she said.

Bob Mikesell, with Penn State University's College of Agricultural Sciences, testifies before a listening panel of USDA, EPA and federal legislator representatives, about the National Pork Producers Association's National Pork Dialogue program and how it proactively has developed operational guidelines for industry producers, in an effort to prevent overbearing government regulation of the industry.

She said people are encouraged to review the strategy and send in their comments.

The deadline for submitting comments is Jan. 19.

Comments should be mailed to: Denise C. Coleman, Program Analyst, USDA Natural Resourcesw Conservation Service, ATTN: AFO, PO Box 2890, Washington, DC 20013-2890.

Written comments were not accepted at the meeting, although manilla envelopes were provided so that those with written comments could mail them to the program address.

Those who commented at the meeting were mostly from Pennsylvania, although a representative of the New York Farm Bureau commented.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau held its annual convention at the same time, and a lay representative declined at the time to offer an opinion on behalf of the state farm organization.

However, PFB comments are to be submitted prior to Jan. 19. An outline of some of the concerns of the PFB were provided last week.

Comments made at the Union Deposit meeting seemed to reflect four different perspectives — those of non-farm residents of the Bedford County area against confinement swine facilities being built in their area; professional representatives of environmental groups with opposition to confinement swine facilities, among other things; professional representatives of agricultural and pro-agricultural groups; and the individual person, potentially subject to law.

Several commentors were from the Bedford area and expressed opposition to allowing any permits for any new facilities until research and federal regulations are developed.

The Bedford area has received some media attention this past year or more because of battles between residents of urban sprawl and farming operators and businesses.

Some who have been following that and other situations around the country have expressed the opinion that the issue is mostly about odor — that, in an attempt to keep new residential and existing developments from being subject to malodors from farms (especially hog and poultry houses), opposition groups have become supported by those who either believe, or disingenously perpetuate, extreme claims of health concerns and water supply safety being caused by such farming operations.

The Bedford controversy resulted in Senate Resolutino 91, an unenforceable request of the state Conservation Commission and others in state agencies to compile information about nutrient management, and confinement facilities and potential problems, and publish it for the general public's access.

Some involved with nutrient management issues in Pennsylvania said they considered such a document could only serve as a manual for battling proposed high-density livestock operations.

Others report that residents from the Bedford area have been traveling the state to different meetings to voice opposition to hog facilities and confinement housing.

The first speaker at the Union Deposit meeting was Karl Novak of Clearville.

He expressed oposition to the Unified Strategy because it doesn't go far enough in establishing site-specific permitting and mandatory planning for all.

He criticized Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act (6) because it usurps local government's oversight of nutrient management planning for farms.

Novak also said that confinement hog facilities and high-density farming are not farms, but factories.

"Let's get one thing straight. These hog factories are not farms," Novak said.

"They are producers of massive quantities of toxic gases and massive quantities of waste laden with heavy metals, viruses and pathogens.

"Hog factories demonstrate little regard to their neighbor's water supply, quality of water and quality of the air they breathe," Novak said.

"Hog factories are a blight on the environment and a massive threat to both the family farmer and the quality of life in the rural America.

"We must have federal regulations ... that protect all the citizens of this nation, because the state of Pennsylvania and other states have been negligent in promoting and promulgating comprehensive and effective regulations."

Novak was followed by Dr. Dave Brubaker, former executive vice president of the PennAg Industries Association (an agricultural business advocacy and educational organization), who surprisingly left the job about a year ago to work for GREEN in Minnesota, but announced that he is now to be working out of New York for GRACE (Global Resource Action Center for the Environment) on its Factory Farm Program.

"I think the proposal is a good step forward. You're at least raising the issue. But, I think it's important to realize that animal factories are industries. They're engaged in manufacturing, just like General Motors makes cars, somebody made this," Brubaker said.

"And it's interesting to me that on one hand we would come down on General Motors in a minute if they were causing the kind of pollution that animal factories cause, and yet, somehow, we say animal factories are agriculture so we can ignore them.

"And I would just argue that animal factories are not agriculture," he said.

"I think if you look at the track record of factory farms, I think you're going to find that voluntary compliance isn't going to do it.

"If voluntary compliance worked, we wouldn't be in the position we're in now."

Brubaker also asked that USDA and EPA consider a moratorium on issuing NPDES permits, which could affect new construction of manure storage facilities and farms considered to be concentrated animal feeding operations by EPA.

"Let's not allow any new facilities until we get ahold of the situation that we're in already," he said.

Also speaking out against farms were Bedford County residents Seri and Craig Kern of Everett, representing the Sidling Hill Creek Watershed Association and the Sierra Club.

They reiterated the call for a moratorium on permits, and argued that the AFO proposal weakens the EPA's CAFO regulations.

Sandy Smith of Broge commented that she would like to see a moratorium on the NPDES permits, and the inclusion in the AFO strategy a requirement that local citizens be notified when an application for an NPDES permit is submitted.

In addition, she requested that the regulations require an NPDES permit for any poultry operation with 40,000 or more birds.

Frederica Barkman of Clearville issued similar comments to those of Novak.

Lamont Garber, a long-time representative of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, who also was involved in the construct of the state's Nutrient Management Act, and was involved in its implementing regulations, testified that the Draft Joint Strategy isn't strong enough and that it should ensure that phosphorus should be considered an important nutrient of concern.

He also called for the Strategy to insist that state water quality agencies be in control of inspecting farms under permit.

"The strategy should clearly require state water quality agencies to establish fair, consistent and universal inspection programs for all large CAFOs, both new and existing.

"These programs would not be designed to punish operators, but to encourage compliance and flag management problems before they become seious environmental problems.

"The responsibility for inspections and compliance assistance for AFOS should be the water quality agencies, not NRCS or conservation districts."

Garber also complained that public financial assistance for CAFOs should be denied.

He said that the costs for adequately addressing the environmental risks associated with high-density farming operations that depend upon imported feed should not be supported in any way with public funds.

"In the case of contract production, responsibility for compliance should rest with those that own the animals and the feed," he said.

Garber also said that the position of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation is that each CAFO farming operation ought to be required to have its own customized permit, called an "individual" permit, instead of a more generic "general" permit that applies to all CAFOs.

Individual permits can require special circumstances be met specific to each farm, whereas a general permit would require a broader standard of compliance for the permit.

In addition, Garber said that USDA and EPA need to specify performance measures to be achieved by the comprehensive nutrient management plans proposed for all AFOs (livestock operations).

Further, he said that in cases where minimum standards for those performance measures would be more restrictive than state law, that federal law ought to supercede the state in authority and the farm be required to comply with a federal standard.

"Here in Pennsylvania," Garber said, "our nutrient management regulations are not adequate for CAFOs. Our regulations do not address phosphorus."

Processor Sees Improving Domestic Market For Mushrooms

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Mushroom processor Gary Caligiuri, president of Sunny Dell Foods, remembers the struggles the industry endured three years in a row.

On a large scale, mushrooms were being imported to the U.S. at deeply discounted rates. Mushrooms were being dumped here from China, India, Indonesia, and Chile, nearly devastating the U.S. industry.

Tons of mushrooms offered to consumers on store shelves was from overseas growers, placing unfair competition on domestic processors and hurting domestic growers.

And for the first time that Caligiuri can remember, in order to stem the "dumping" of cheap mushroom imports into the country, way below cost of production, the industry got together a year ago to see what they could do to stop it.

Fortunately, an industry comprised of small- to medium-sized businesses run by families solicited the help of the International Trade Commission and the Commerce Department. A year ago this month, a determination was made to tariff products imported from Chile. Mushroom growers in this country finally could breathe a little easier.

But the battle isn't over. On Dec. 17 this year, the final determination will be made on imports from China, India, and Indonesia.

If the ruling comes in favor of U.S. producers, there will be "a lot more domestic product on the store shelves," said Caligiuri.

Caligiuri operates two businesses. One, Specialty Packaging in Toughkenamon, employs five people and is managed by Bob Fella. The business receives boxes manufactured and printed by Stone Container or Weyerhaeuser Paper Company. At the plant, the boxes are placed in "forms" for individual packagers. Delivery of formed product is seven days per week.

In the past, many processors used a generic cardboard box, form-fitted and labeled with the grade of mushrooms available.

But Specialty Packaging learned how to personalize and specialize the boxes in different shapes and sizes for the needs of customers.

"We've 'advanced' them," said Caligiuri. The new boxes contain a fancy design with the owner's name, pictures, recipes, and mushroom facts. In the past several years, Specialty Packaging has been focusing on providing more private and personalized labelling services to mushroom products.

The other business, headquartered in Kennett Square, is Sunny Dell Foods, which employs 30 people. Caligiuri began Sunny Dell five years ago, naming it after a road in Avondale where he used to maintain a warehouse for Specialty Packaging.

Caligiuri was born and raised in Kennett Square and literally grew up in the mushroom business. "I was born in the industry," he said. Caligiuri's grandfathers were both mushroom growers. Caligiuri's wife, Lori's, father was a mushroom grower. Lori is now the company accountant.

Years ago, Gary Caligiuri moved to Temple, Berks County, for a time, growing mushrooms and transporting them to a Kennett Square packer and to fresh market. He began renting space from a warehouse in Oxford — the Oxford Corp. Mushroom Cannery.

Eventually, after leasing the company, he purchased Oxford Corp. from owner Tom DiCecco in 1995.

In 1995, the company canned mushrooms and moved slowly into the marinated glass mushroom market. From there, Caligiuri leased the Specialty Packaging building in Toughkenamon. In May this year, Caligiuri purchased what used to be the Seneca Foods mushroom processing plant in Kennett Square, from which Sunny Dell now operates.

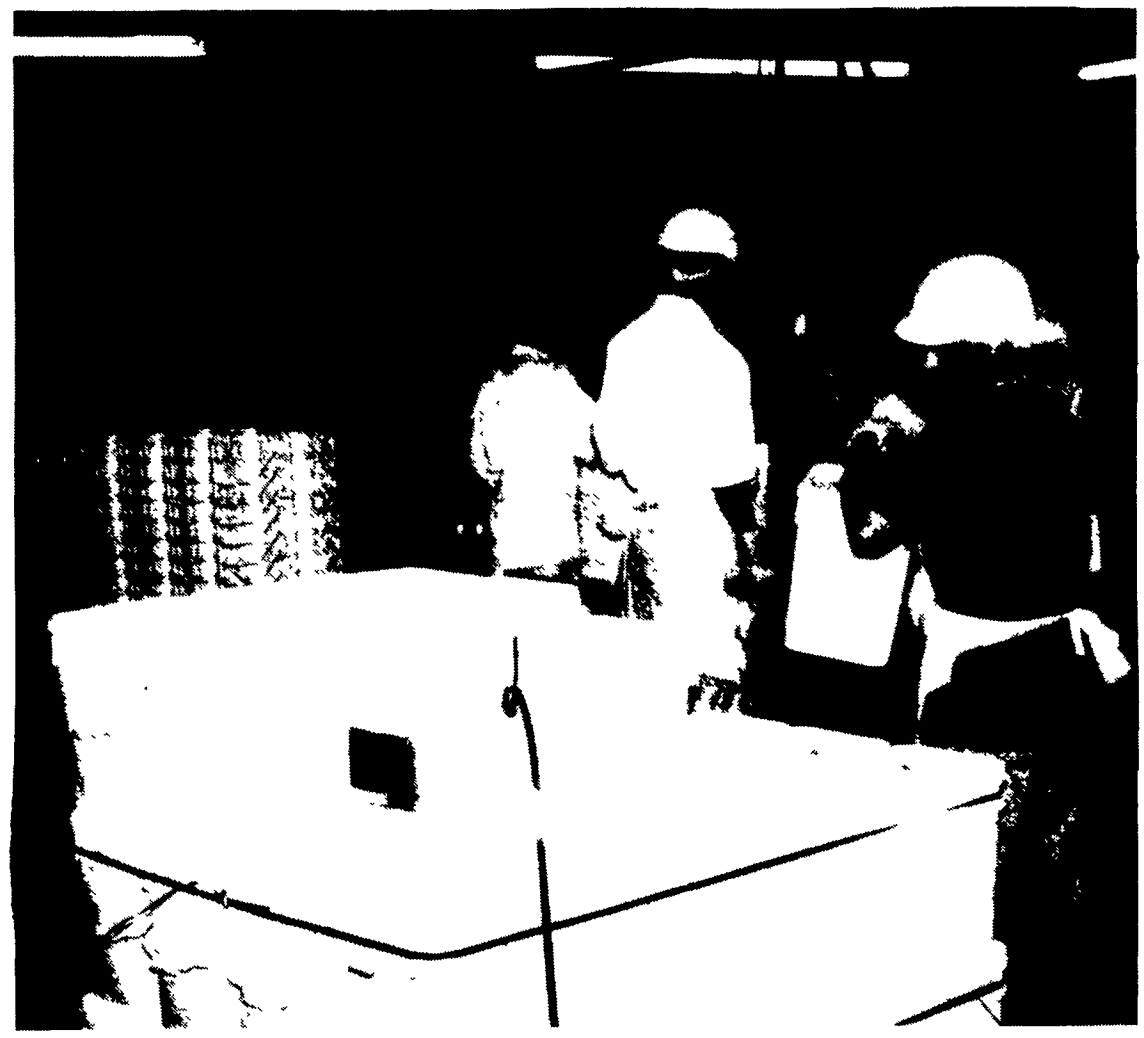
"We do all the packaging for Seneca, a huge company," said Caligiuri. Seneca is based in Marion, N.Y.

However, Sunny Dell also packages under its own label, including canned and bottled mushrooms and the "exotic" mushroom line, including refrigerated and marinated mushrooms. In all, Sunny Dell packages mushroom foods for about a dozen companies, including Phillips Foods in Kennett Square, South Mill Mushrooms, Modern Mushroom, Moonlight Mushroom, and Creekside Mushroom. They accept the button mushroom, medium mushroom, soup-grade, and number 2 mushrooms for processing.

Sunny Dell can process cans in four-, eight-, and 16-ounce cans, up to a number 10 (68-ounce) can. They can process glass jars in 3½ -, six-, eight-, 12-, 16-, and 32-ounce sizes.

They can process any type of mushroom product, including mushroom salads, whole mushrooms, portobellos, and exotics.

One Sunny Dell product is their Massimino Brand (named after Gary's grandfather), which includes five different marinated flavors in mushrooms for the upscale market. They can provide garlic Italian, herb Italian, Mexican jalapeno, sweet Italian, and Italian salads. They formulate and product-test their own items. Sunny Dell ships products all over the U.S.



Here four-gallon refrigerated white mushrooms are filled at the Sunny Dell Foods factory.

Sunny Dell can process and can or bottle in almost any approved size container and ship as necessary.

The company can provide refrigerated products in ¾ gallon, one gallon, or four-gallon containers. He can even refrigerate a product in 55-gallon drums if requested.

Caligiuri said the company employs a stable workforce. Their quality control inspector, Carolina Carreno, has been employed at the plant for 20 years. Scott Philistine is plant manager, Lori Caligiuri is accountant, and Monica Saganich is secretary/receptionist.

Caligiuri purchases mushrooms from 30 local growers. Mushrooms range from the Agaragus Whites to the Crimini to the portobello to the shiitake mushroom.

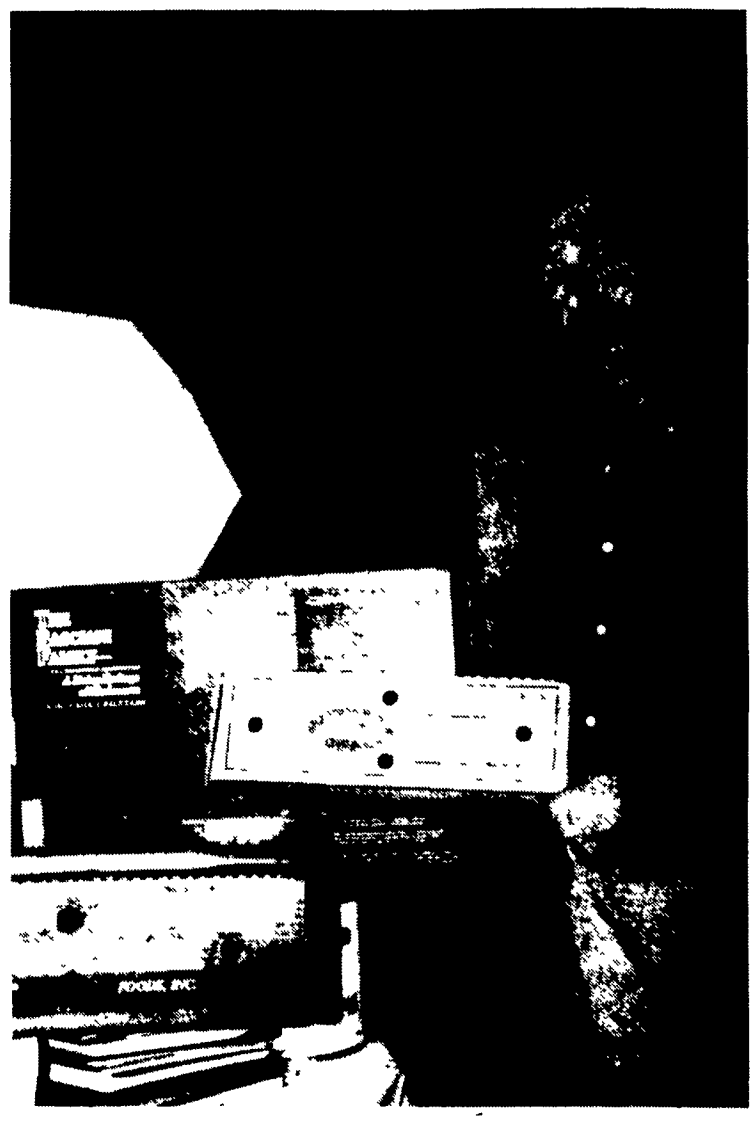
In the future, Caligiuri will focus on new products, including further processing of white and portobello mushroom products, pizza, and other items. Included is a special jalapeno/mushroom process that the company has begun. They are venturing into the salsa and soups market.

Sunny Dell packages mushrooms for the Joseph Sbarro family in Commack, N.Y.; Cantisano Foods, Fairport, N.Y.; John LiDestri, who makes several well-known products in the industry; Lisanti Foods in Totowa, N.J.; and others.

Caligiuri said that he owes his start in the industry to the help of several people. He said some of those include Joseph Sbarro of Sbarro Inc.; Joseph Lisanti, owner of Lisanti Foods; and Michael Basciani and the Basciani family, who provided a big opportunity to start a business.

Caligiuri said his customers are looking for a "fair price for a fair product, which they can take and return to sell to the customers." He noted the company's flexibility in supplying customers what they need when they need it.

Sunny Dell Foods, Kennett Square, employs 30 people. Gary Caligiuri began Sunny Dell five years ago, naming it after a road in Avondale where he maintained a warehouse for Specialty Packaging.



In the past, many processors used a generic cardboard box, form-fitted and labeled with the grade of mushrooms available. But Specialty Packaging learned how to personalize the boxes in different shapes and sizes for the needs of

Westmoreland 4-H/FFA Livestock Sales Tops $105,000

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Corespondent

MUTUAL (Westmoreland Co.) – The Westmoreland County Jr. Livestock Committee sponsored the livestock sale at the Westmoreland County Fair held earlier this year. Gross proceeds of the sale were $105,063.05, according to Joan E. Logan, extension agent for 4-H/Youth The sale also presents the opportunity for businesses and individuals to contribute to a county 4-H scholarship fund, which began in 1994. Funds collected at the county livestock show and sale amounted to over $3,610 according to Eleanor Swogger, 4-H program assistant, Penn State Extension office, Greensburg. In addition, a benefit auction at the fair netted more than $1,000 additional for the scholarship fund. Add to the possible scholarship, an additional advantage for youth created by the livestock sale. The "above market price" earned at the sale is illustrated in the following summary of sale prices (all in LB) for the 305 lots of animals sold.

Market lambs market price $0.65; sale average with champions $1.40; sale average without champions $1.25.

Market hogs market price $0.32; sale average with champions $1.34; sale average without champions $1.30.

Market goats market price $.45; sale average with champions $1.35; sale average without champions $1.12.

Carcass lamb market price $1.35; sale average with champions $3.00; sale average without champions $2.16.

Carcass hog market price $0.64; sale average of champions $3.00,

Awards total climbs to twenty-eight.

After a breather following the fair, the Westmoreland County 4-H Memorial Scholarship fund awarded ten scholarships of $500 each at a 4-H Achievement Night held November 10, 1998. The scholarship programs grows through the continue support of individuals and organizations. Since beginning in 1994 the fund has granted twenty-eight scholarships primarily to 4-H youth.

The annual William C. Kelly scholarship award is given to a livestock youth planning to study at an agricultural college. Receiving the award this year is Carolyn Virginia Schramm of Jeannette. Carolyn is a member of Alwine Community 4-H Club and the Westmoreland County 4-H Investors. Carolyn is a senior at Penn Trafford High School and plans to attend Penn State University majoring in agricultural science. Carolyn attended the Governor's School in Agriculture in 1997. Carolyn hopes to become a farm owner/manager.

For twenty five year prior to his death in 1997, Mr. Kelly, for whom the award is named, served as Westmoreland County extension director. The recipient of this scholarship may be either a 4-H or FFA members.

A second annual award has gone to Kenneth P. Reed II, Derry. Ken is a member of Mountain View Ag, Travel-All, and New Alexandria Home Ec 4-H Clubs. He is a senior at Derry Area High School, planning to attend Penn State University, majoring in agriculture science and planning on a career in the agricultural field.

This award, given to a 4-H animal science or dairy member planning to study Agriculture Science at Penn State, is named for Joe Thurston, a Westmoreland County Extension agent for 35 years until his retirement in 1972. Joseph was instrumental in starting the Westmoreland Fair. Eight others also received scholarships including: Angela Marie Pecora, Jeannette a member of Slickville Ag 4-H Club and the Westmoreland County 4-H Council. She showed the grand Champion market hog at the 1998 Westmoreland Livestock show.

She attended Penn Trafford High School and is a freshman at St. Vincent College majoring in accounting. She plans to become a certified public accountant.

Jereme Jon Donnelly, Jeannette, a member of West Hempfield Vogues 4-H Club. He is a senior at Penn Trafford High School and plans to attend Penn State, majoring in architecture and to pursue a career in architecture.

Glenn Scott Hawkey, New Alexandria, is a member of Slickville Ag 4-H Club. He attended the Kiski School and is a freshman at Virginia Tech majoring in agricultural economics. He plans to become a machinery dealership manager.

Westmoreland County 1998 4-H Outstanding youth Announced

Tracy Ross, Unity Township and Jeffrey Sarault, Ligonier have been named the outstanding 4-H youth for 1998 by the Penn State Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Development Program.

Ross has been an active 4-H member for 10 years. She is involved with the Sugarloaf and New Alexandria 4-H Home Economics Clubs. Over her tenure with the 4-H program she has served as elected club officer from social chairperson to president. Currently Tracy is a freshman at Penn State University. Tracy's love of 4-H lies with her interest in people and learning. Tracy was active with her animal science and family relations project work, excelling in both areas. Over the years she exhibited champion market swine and was recognized on the state level for her skills in textile science.

Tracy's account of her past 10 years with 4-H points out the many abilities that she developed including working in a group, setting goals and practicing leadership. But she adds that the relationships that she developed with her adult leaders, her peers, and the younger 4-H members has possibly made the biggest impact on her development up to this point. As Tracy puts it, "All of these experiences will enable me to contribute my knowledge, my ideas and my memories to society. I feel having done all of these things, I'll already be one step ahead,"

Jeff Sarault is a sophomore at Ligonier Valley High School with a relatively short tenure with the 4-H Youth Development Program. Jeff is best known for This public speaking and communication abilities. Jeff has been an active 4-H member for four years, focusing on the equine area with his Quarter Horse and a natural resources project. Jeff feels 4-H has given him an arena to perfect some skills. Jeff has held various 4-H club offices in his local Chestnut Ridge and Laurel Mountain Horse Clubs. He has served on country and regional level planning committees for leadership conferences and awards program such as Day Camp Counselor and Teen Counselor for the summer regional 4-H resident camp. Both of these experiences Jeff sites as building an understanding of people's attitudes and culture. Jeff has developed a disc jockey business and hopes to be able to promote the positives of youth on the radio.

"I think all teens have the power to be an influence on the future of the world" Jeff says, "and I am only trying to prove it!"

Jeff Sarault and Tracy Ross were selected from the over 3,000 4-H members throughout Westmoreland County. These young peoples' written records were reviewed and each applicant participated in a personal interview. A selection committee representing community businesses made the selection. Jeff and Tracy are representing Westmoreland County at the National 4-H Congress, Atlanta, Georgia in November.

Looking ahead to next year, livestock participants should prepare for completing the outstanding 4-H livestock member applications. The Pennsylvania Livestock Association will again recognize an Outstanding 4-H boy and girl in Pennsylvania for their project work in the livestock area. A cash award of $100 plus a dinner in Harrisburg will be given to each recipient.

For an application contact Beverly Gruber, PO Box 5 New Tripoli, PA 18066 or call (610) 767-5026 or email lowhill@fast.net. The deadline for completing applications is August 15.

Cattlemen receive 1998 Westmoreland County Friend of 4-H Award

Westmoreland County Cattlemen's Association is being recognized for its long-time support of the 4-H livestock program. Since 1990 this commodity related organization has given financially and of their expertise, supporting the Westmoreland County delegation to the regional livestock overnighter educational programs. For the last three years they have provided a reduced cost sandwich and drink to livestock sale buyers. They provided $500 toward safety barrier gates used during the livestock show at the Westmoreland Fair. They were initial supporters of the Westmoreland 4-H Scholarship Fund by giving $500. The group is the guiding force for 4-H livestock members and has pledged $2,500 for the proposed livestock exhibition and education center

Only one business, organization or private individual can be selected by the Westmoreland County 4-H youth and families to receive the honor as the Westmoreland County Friend of 4-H.

There are over 3000 4-H members in Westmoreland County and over 250 adult sponsors. More than 4800 projects were completed by Westmoreland County 4-H'ers in 1997 with the most popular project areas in animal science, food and nutrition, engineering, and leadership.

Farmers Ready To Vote

farmer who has been spearheading the effort find a way to bring the southern tobacco buyers back into Pennsylvania said they have indications but no specific promise the buyers will come if a farmer-controlled auction is started. Right now, the project hangs in the balance because even though the crowds at the recent meetings were large and a good number of farmers immediately became members of the cooperative, the total to date is still only a small part of the 1,100 tobacco farmers with a total of 20 million pounds of tobacco to sell. Both type 609 and 41 tobacco are involved in the marketing effort.

"We should have more members to make it work," Balmer said. "But farmers are sitting on their farms waiting for the buyers to come and no one is showing up. We must make the attempt with the support we have. We have so little to loose and if we can find a way to get this tobacco sold, we have a lot to gain."

Balmer has said much of the work on the project to date has been voluntary. If the project should be dropped the relatively small expense to conduct the effort and make the cooperative legal in Pennsylvania will be paid from the $50 membership dues and the remainder returned to the farmers.

The deadline to become a member of the cooperative has been extended into December. Balmer said the committee hopes many farmers who have not yet joined the cause will come to the December 11th meeting, pay the dues, and vote on the question to begin an auction or not to begin an auction. Farmers who wish to become members at the meeting are asked to come a little early so the paperwork can be processed.

Not only does the loss of the tobacco market put hardship on individual farmers, the supporting agri-businesses feel the lost revenue as well. Tobacco money pays off production loans, farm mortages, and equipment and service purchases.

About 25 percent of the county's tobacco is Type 41, cigar tobacco. Lancaster Leaf, a local company, usually buys the bulk of this crop. The remainder of the local crop is Type 609, cigarette tobacco. Balmer tells farmers to list seperately the number of pounds of each type on the cooperative

If a majority of the members vote to support the marketing effort at the December 11 meeting, committee members hope to have an auction barn rented, a sales manager named, and an auction scheduled in two weeks. Balmer realizes this is more of a wishful hope rather than a realistic time table. But she wants to emphasize the serious effort leaders are ready to give the project to get the tobacco sold.

Anyone who would like more information or wants to become a member of the marketing cooperative may contact Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent. Phone (717) 394-6851.

Bryant And Fetrow Join Beef Staff

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Two new faces joined the Pennsylvania Beef Council this fall. Carrie Bryant joined the PBC staff as the new promotions director October 1. Her responsibilities include food service and retail programs, as well as special statewide beef marketing projects. Previously, Bryant was the marketing communications coordinator at Sire Power, Inc. of Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania. Bryant, a Penn State graduate, grew up on a dairy farm in Wayne County, PA.

Jennifer Fetrow became a member of the PBC team on September 1. The new business manager has held previous management positions with Tractor Supply Stores and the Bon Ton department store. As business manager, her responsibilities will include maintaining the accounts for PBC and outside contracts with the American Veal Association and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, beef checkoff compliance activities, and assistance in PBC programs. Fetrow is also a Penn State graduate, with a degree in Agricultural Business Management.

Adams County Composting Program Under Review

JINNY WILT
Adams County Correspondent

ADAMS COUNTY — Mother Nature's been doing it for years — and so have farmers and gardeners.

Now comes a way to speed up this natural process that could possibly make manure and other vegetable matter a money producer for farmers.

The process is composting, a popular method of turning manure and vegetable waste into a beneficial product.

Recently David D. Koun Jr., Adams County Chesapeake Bay Program nutrient management specialist along with John Caffrey, a New Jersey businessman, brought a portable laboratory model of a mechanical composter to Adams County. In a joint effort with the local Conservation district they placed the composter — or digester as some call it — on several farms for a few days so that farmers could see it in a field operation. While this model was not automated, most would be, Caffrey said.

Caffrey's company worked with Texas A&M to develop the digester which can go from site to site—to farms, food processors and sewage plants and potentially lower disposal coats.

After its stay in Adams County, the composter was going to Penn State where it was to be used experimentally in the disposal of sewage and farm waste, and possibly vegetative waste from the cafeteria.

He noted proposed changes to composting regulations make the digester a valuable tool for the farmer. "In the past you used to be able to take your manure or whatever you had and dump it out there but with the changes that are coming farmers will no longer, in some cases, be able to do that. So we're offering what we believe is the cheapest solution to a lot of their problems. Since an $18,000 unit will take care of the waste of up to 50 dairy cattle per day."

And, some compost can be used as a feed supplement, he said.

Kann added that in particular turkey farmers might find the digester a valuable tool for composting manure since many of them have "small properties" and are trucking their waste long distances.

He uses Maryland as an example where the land is already high in phosphorus and so is turkey manure. "One option would be turning it into compost," Kann said.

Kann added that in particular turkey farmers might find the digester a valuable tool for composting manure since many of them have "small properties" and are trucking their waste long distances.

He uses Maryland as an example where the land is already high in phosphorus and so is turkey manure. "One option would be turning it into compost," Kann said.

Kann added that he officially responded to the Animal Feeding Operations Strategy (AFO), a joint proposal of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to follow a strategy to use interpretations of existing authorities and programs to get all livestock farmers to adopt comprehensive nutrient management plans.

In his response to AFO he expressed concern "That we're getting into an area that is dangerous and costly to the farmer who does not have the option to pass the buck."

But, Kann adds, with an onsite composter, the farmer could have another product to sell.

The act of composting is "Using nature's micro-organisms to reduce an organic material to is basic mineral forms. So if composting is ultimately completed down to its final reduction you would get calcium, phosphorus, magnesium and whatever else was in the basic material.

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders, LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 575 with a mixing capacity of 625 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Serving Farmers Through Farm Equipment Dealers Since 1961

Adams County Composting Program

"For our use we don't need to go that far. No composting that we ever see goes that far, but it could," Caffrey explained.

The five variables of composting are air, water, nitrogen, carbon and particle size. And, Caffrey said, "If we take our composter to a new site we have to work with it to adjust those variables until we get composting to a suitable end." Experimentation is a necessary component of the process, he said.

Ken Smith who operates a farm that produces turkeys for Wampler Foods of New Oxford tried the composter and said while he previously spread manure on his fields this process produced a much more refined product that could be sold.

Caffrey said his company is also investigating the possibility of setting up their own composting site in the area, "taking waste material in from food processors and so forth to get a custom blend . . . and sell the end product ourselves . . . this could be as early as six months from now."

The company was planning talks with the Adams County Solid Waste Authority which is investigating the development of a composting site.

Bicky Redman, Adams County's Solid Waste Coordinator, said it appears that a central municipal composting site would save the community money. It would be the first such operation in the Commonwealth. She said the county hopes to have such a site chose by the end of the year.

The digester used on the farms is a small version of what the county would need, she said. The authority would probably need two digesters that each measure 180 feet in length and are 14-feet in diameter. "We would be loading 50 to 70 tons per day," she said.

The composters would be turning 24 hours a day and each load would be digested in three days—the same as those on the farms. Cost of the project is estimated at $14 million.

And, just as in the case of farmers, the county would look for a market to sell the end product. "We're looking at possibly golf courses or turf growing businesses," Bicky said.

She said with the number of landfills closing, composting becomes a viable means to dispose of waste.

And, in the case of farmers it might just be an economic option to dispose of their farm waste and earn cash too.

Hershey Equipment - Best Kept Secret In The Broiler Industry

Big Dutchman.

UniGROW360 BROILER FEEDING SYSTEM.

After years of Broiler Pan Evolution, It's Time for a Revolution.

Everyone also knows manually adjusting hundreds of pans every couple of days is unrealistic. The income you would gain in feed efficiency would be lost several times over in labor costs. That's why the UniGROW360 system is so revolutionary.

NOW, YOU CAN QUICKLY AND EASILY ADJUST THE FEED LEVEL AS OFTEN AS YOU LIKE

This special winch enables simultaneous feed level adjustment of a line of UniGROW360 pans with a simple turn of the crank. Unlike other systems, it is not dependent upon level floors.

Dairyman To Dairyman

QUESTION: What can we do to prevent separation of grain and forage in our TMR? If we do nothing will our cows perform as they should?

ANSWER: Certain feeding situations make this a very good question.

A TMR made up of dry hay and grain is the extreme example of two ingredients that are so different in physical nature that maintaining a homogeneous blend of feed is almost impossible without using some sort of binding agent like molasses, liquid fat, wet byproducts such as brewers, or even water.

I made a visit to this farm because only experience can determine whether separation of feeds as seen by the dairyman is a legitimate concern.

I had requested in advance that a sample of feed be kept as it was discharged from the mixer. I arrived at the tail end of the feeding period with feed left over from the morning feeding.

The amount looked to be adequate and the feeder reported that total leftovers for the day were a bit less than what I saw at the end of the daytime feed period.

I advised them that feeding for an 8 percent refusal was important and that this should be checked periodically with the scales on the wagon so that the eyeball method can be a bit more accurate.

When comparing the mixed feed with the refusal, it was apparent that the cows were sorting. The most accurate way to measure the severity of separation is to lab analyze both of the samples.

Another way to tell if some feed management changes are needed is to review the performance of the cows since starting this particular diet.

Milk pounds have risen steadily since the TMR ration was fed (54 to 58.5). Butterfat percent has remained identical (3.8 percent), which tells me that rumen health has not been compromised.

Percent protein has gone up slightly, but still looks normal for Holsteins (3.2 to 3.3 percent).

MUN has gone down to 10 from 13 indicates that the balance of carbohydrates to protein has increased.

My recommendation in this case is to monitor the above measurements and if no major change occurs, do not change anything.

The cows have told us through DHIA information that although they are sorting and thereby not eating the diet prepared for them; they are able to perform well.

When asked by the dairyman about the addition of water to help keep the feed together, I replied that inexpensive ideas are often the most underestimated.

I suggested that the addition of liquid molasses would be best in my opinion, but he should work with his nutritionists to look at all his options before making a decision. If molasses were to be added, the other carbohydrate sources should also be adjusted due to the previous changes in MUN.

The real concept here is to not just be satisfied with good rations on paper, but more importantly, make sure that you know what your cows are really eating.

Let PA DHIA records tell you about your cows and if you cannot hear what they are saying, maybe I can help.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Keystone Kafe Brings Good Food To Farm Show Complex All Year

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Officials of eight Pennsylvania commodity groups met at the Farm Show Complex Thursday morning to witness the grand opening of a new year-round food-serving area just inside the main exhibition hall at the front door. Named the "Keystone Kafe," the new food area is designed to serve Pennsylvania food products to the thousands of people who visit the complex to attend exhibitions that are held throughout the year.

Pennsylvania's agriculture secretary Samuel Hayes Jr., conducted the event saying people traditionally expect good food at the farm show. Now it will be possible for good food to be offered at all exhibitions throughout the year.

"I am very pleased the Farm Show staff worked with the Pennsylvania commodity groups to make it possible to give sharper focus to the foods that are produced here," Hayes said. "Our new state theme "Agriculture Products for the Planet" causes us to think globally, which we must. But we must also play good at home. When you have strong commodity groups as we have in Pennsylvania you can't help but play good at home."

The new food vending area is managed by a newly formed company called the Pennsylvania Agriculture Company.

This company is comprised of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association; Pennsylvania Livestock Association; Pennsylvania Bakers Association; Pennsylvania Potato Growers; Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association; Pennsylvania Mushroom Growers Association; and the State Horticulture Association of Pennsylvania. The commodity groups that participate in the food court at the Pennsylvania Farm Show will continue as in the past.

Dave Smith, who represents the Dairymen's Association is the president of the new company. He said the goal of the new Keystone Kafe is to facilite the commodity organizations' food service to the large number of visitors to the Farm Show Complex each year. In addition, these commodity groups fund research, product development, educational programs and youth programs that will be supported by the profits from this venture.

DFA Board Approves Merger Proposal With Michigan Dairy

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – The boards of directors of Kansas City-based Dairy farmers of America and Grand Rapids, Michigan-based Independent Cooperative Milk Producers Association (ICMPA) have voted to pursue actions that could lead to a merger of the two organizations. Further action hinges on a vote by ICMPA's 730 dairy farmer members, completion of due-diligence reviews and a final vote of the DFA board of directors, all of which is expected to take place in coming weeks.

"The objective of this action is to increase efficiencies, and enhance profitability, and secure long-term stable markets for the member-producers of ICMPA," said Bob Naerebout, president of ICMPA's board of directors," After a through review and lengthy deliberation, the board agrees that merger with DFA would provide ICMPA's members with the greatest opportunities for growth and stability in this dramatically changing industry.

Headquartered in Grand Rapids, Michigan, ICMPA is a regional dairy cooperative. With 730 dairy farmer members in the states of Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, ICMPA markets milk to fluid and manufactured product customers within the tri-state area.

DFA Board Chairman Herman Brubaker said the addition of ICMPA members to the DFA organization would be beneficial to both producer groups. "ICMPA has developed an excellent reputation for quality milk production, and DFA is a leading supplier and manufacturer of quality dairy products," he said. "We think the merger of these two organizations will be very positive for all our dairy producer members."

Nearly one year old (as of January 1, 1999), DFA is the nation's newest dairy marketing cooperative and food company. Owned by 22,000 dairy farmer members in 43 states, DFA markets and processes more than 32 billion pounds of milk annually, and maintains a wide range of manufacturing facilities and joint ventures.

According to Naerebout, in the month ahead, ICMPA's members will participate in information meetings about the merger in preparation for a special member vote. A timeline has not been set.

Market Growers Sought on Shore

Lower Shore fruit and vegetable growers making plans for 1999 are asked to consider selling at farmers' markets as part of their marketing says Tony Evans of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

"There are openings at the well-established Salisbury Farmers' Market operated by the Shore Fresh Growers Association as well as openings at the highly successful Ocean City Farmers' market."

"The search is really on for an apple producer at these two markets as well as a market in Berlin," he said.

"Growers in Delaware, and the Maryland counties or Dorchester, Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset should really look into the Lower Shore markets which together operate six days a week in season," Mr. Evans concluded.

Interested producers can contact Mr. Evans at (410) 841-5770.

A feature story on the program appeared in the June 13, 1998 issue of Lancaster Farming. The program serves about 75 clients, both adult and youth, with 7 horses and ponies. Volunteers handle the work of helping the riders in rehabilitation programs afforded by the movement and warmth of the animals. Anyone who would like to make a donation to the program may call the association's treasurer, Lee Ann Ressler, (717) 299-2163. Volunteers interested in working with people of various disability levels may call the volunteer coordinator, Nancie Doyle, (717) 687-8547. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Herd Health - Article 26

The next group of articles will focus on herd health

Good herd health is crucial to the success of your dairy business It protects the large capital investment you have in cattle, and it provides your herd an opportunity to do well and be profitable

A good herd health program consists of

- Curing the herd of present diseases and ailments
- Implementing an effective biosecurity program to prevent cattle from acquiring new diseases
- Protecting cattle from injuries
- Implementing a preventive health programs that includes routine herd checks by a veterinarian This is usually more cost effective than programs that focus primarily on curing problems after they occur
- Maintaining a close working relationship with your veterinarian

Natural Immunity

Basically, there are two forms of immunity One form is acquired naturally The other form is acquired through vaccination. This article will focus primarily on natural immunity.

- Cattle develop natural immunity to many of the diseases they have been exposed to in life.

  They have a tremendous ability to fight off infections naturally, that is, IF they are healthy and have developed an effective immune system, and IF their immune system has not jeopardized by a variety of stressful situations such as· calving difficulties, malnutrition, change of feeds, toxins, weaning, regrouping, overcrowding, dirty environments, poor ventilation, injuries, excessive parasite loads, trucking, infections, diseases, etc.

  The goal should be to minimize these stresses so the animal's immune system has a greater chance of functioning effectively.

- Cows pass their natural immunity on to their calves through their colostrum milk, that is, IF the calf drinks enough of the colostrum soon enough after birth, and IF the colostrum is of good quality. The quality of colostrum can be determined by using a colostrometer to measure its specific gravity which is an indication of its globulin content.

- The colostrum of older cows in the herd generally is of higher quality than that of younger cows and heifers, or of cows that have been brought into the herd from other farms The older cows that have resided in your herd have had more exposure to the diseases present in your herd Therefore, their colostrum should give calves better immunity to the diseases they will be exposed to in your herd

As soon as calves are born, a race takes place between germs and colostrum to see which gets to the gut first and which gets absorbed into the blood stream.

Thus, it becomes VERY IMPORTANT to get about 2 quarts of colostrum into the newborn calf (1 5 quarts for small calves) within the first hour or two after birth, and another 1 5 - 2 0 quarts within the first 8-12 hours after birth IT IS THE CHEAPEST AND SINGLE MOST EFFECTIVE PROTECTION A CALF WILL EVER GET!!! DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY!!!

It may be impossible to get calves to drink this much colostrum this soon after birth; they might have to be force fed with an esophageal tube If you do tube-feed the calf, be sure you get the tube into the esophagus and not into the lungs

This passive immunity, which the calf gets from the colostrum, lasts about 4-6 months. If this passive immunity is sill present when the young calf is vaccinated at a young age, it may render these early vaccinations ineffective Therefore, if you do vaccinate calves at a young age, you may want to revaccinate them again after 6 months, or delay vaccinating calves until they are about 6 months of age. However, if the calf did not get much passive immunity from colostrum, for whatever reason, early vaccination may be beneficial Consult your veterinarian for advice

Dairy Feeding Systems Conference Dec. 8-10 Camp Hill

ITHACA N.Y. – More than 400 diary producers, farm managers, and professionals in related fields will meet in Camp Hill, Pa., Dec. 8-10 to learn about current research and share personal experience concerning dairy feeding systems.

Entitled "Dairy Feeding Systems: Management, Components, and nutrients," the conference will bring more than 30 speakers to the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel and Convention center to share their knowledge on all aspects of dairy feeding systems components and management.

Participants may still register for the conference, which will explore how feeding systems impact milk production, labor requirements, capital investments, cropping systems, excess nutrients, and overall farm profitability. Only 50 seats are left for this event.

Included in the three-day program are presentations on feeding systems and herd health, choosing storage facilities, forage allocation, contracting for feed, coping with catastrophic loss, TMR mixers and management, worker training, grouping strategies, feed bunks, water quality, cow comfort, shrinkage, feed quality, economics, and nutrient management. Speakers form academia and industry will include animal scientists, engineers, consultants, veterinarians, and agronomists.

The conference will offer a combination of presentations, panel discussions, and informal discussions. Plenty of time will be dedicated to audience questions.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 8, conference participants are invited to a reception and trade show. Evening discussions on Wednesday, Dec. 9, will focus on TMR mixer management, bunker silo management, and energy management throughout the lactation cycle.

In addition to dairy producers and farm managers, attendees will include producer advisers and consultants; extension and university educators; nutritionists; crop advisors; feed, seed, and equipment sales representatives; nutrient managers and agronomists; veterinarians; agricultural engineers; and facility designers. The program will also be of interest to policy makers, lenders, and professionals working in agricultural media.

The registration fee for the conference is $260 in U.S. funds. The fee includes admission to the conference, one lunch, break refreshments, reception refreshments, evening discussions, and a copy of the 408-page conference proceedings.

Complete conference information can also be found on the NRAES Web page. <HTTP://NRAES.ORG>. Registrations will be accepted via the Internet or by telephone or fax for those who wish to pay by credit card.Walk-in registrations may also be offered for remaining seats at the Radisson Penn Harris beginning at 6 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 7. Call NRAES for information. To register or to receive copies of the free conference brochure, contact NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701, (607) 255-7654; fax (607) 254-8770; e-mail nraes@cornell.edu

A block of rooms has been reserved for conference participants at the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel and Convention Center. To reserve a room, call the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel at (717) 763-7117 or (800) 333-3333. For those who act quickly, rooms may still be available at a special conference rate. Mention "Dairy Feeding Conference" to receive the special conference rate of $65, plus 6 percent tax, for a single, double, triple, or quad.

Unseasonably Warm Temperatures Raise Food Safety Issues For Freshly Killed Deer

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Temperatures above 50 degrees Fahrenheit during deer season means hunters must be aware of food safety issues as they dress and transport their kill to be butchered or processed, according to a meat scientist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Hunters should get the deer out of the woods and delivered to a processor within 12 hours," said Ed Mills, associate professor of dairy and animal science. "Hunting tradition is that you bring the deer back to camp, hand it in a tree and leave it there until it's time to go home. In weather like this year, you should get it into the cooler the same day.

"In most years, the temperatures during deer season are somewhat between 40 degrees F and freezing, which is the perfect temperature range for fresh meat refrigeration," Mills said. "On days above 50 degrees F, the temperatures inside the carcass of a deer hanging in the sun or within an unrefrigerated processing business can reach 70 or 80 degrees F."

Mills explains that any raw food commodity carries bacteria that will increase in population the longer the commodity is left unrefrigerated. In temperatures above 70 degrees F, Mills estimates the amount of bacteria could double every 4 to 5 hours.

"Spoilage will give the deer meat off odors or off-flavors," Mills said. "These odors may not be apparent until the processed package is opened at a later date."

Mills advises those preparing deer meat from this season to cook it to medium-well or well done. "Deer harvested in warm temperatures," he said. "If you're following good safety practices in the kitchen when preparing game meat, you can greatly reduce your risk of getting a food-borne infection or illness."

Mills said the uncontrolled conditions in which a deer is killed also can contribute to food safety problems. The hunter's bullet will bring bacteria from the skin into the meat as it enters a deer. A shot to the deer's gastrointestinal tract, or gut, will release millions of bacteria onto the carcass.

Mills recommends eviscerating deer as soon as they are killed, taking care not to nick or cut the gastrointestinal tract during the process. "Conditions in the woods are not very sanitary, and the person doing the eviscerating does this once a year or probably less often, so it's important to be very careful when dressing the deer," he said.

Mills also recommends taking a deer killed during warm weather to a processing business that features a fully refrigerated processing facility where carcasses can be stored or hung in a cooler and where meat is cut and processed in a refrigerated area.

"You'll be more likely to get back a better quality product," Mills said.

Snyder Elected Beef Council Chairman

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Dennis Snyder, a veal producer from Westfield, Pennsylvania, was elected chairman of the Pennsylvania Beef Council at their annual reorganization meeting. Snyder is the first veal producer to serve as chairman of the 21-member board of directors which oversees the beef checkoff program in Pennsylvania The Potter County producer had previously served as vice chairman of the board. Snyder, and his wife Sharon, operate a 200 stall independent veal farm in Northern Pennsylvania In addition to serving on the Beef Council Board, Snyder also serves as treasurer of the American Veal Association.

Randall Meabon, a dairy farmer from Wattsburg, Pennsylvania, was elected as vice chairman. Meabon farms with his family in Erie County. Meabon had previously served as the Beef Council Treasurer, and also serves as a Dairy Farmer's of America Cooperative (DFA) director.

Jerome Carl, a beef producer from Dysert, Cambria County, was elected treasurer of the board while Alan Waybright, a Gettysburg, Adams County, dairy producer was elected secretary.

The Board also re-elected Dennis Snyder, veal representative; Norman Kolb, auction market representative; Randy Meabon, Western regional dairy producer; John Hess, Eastern regional beef producer; and Ray Grimes, Lowell Wilson and Paul Slayton, Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association representatives, to the board. Newly elected directors to the board are Duane Hertzler, a dairy producer from Perry County; Bob Livingston, a beef producer from York County; Steve Bryce, a representative of Moyer Packing; and Kathy Allen, a beef producer from Butler County. Bill McCoy, past Beef Council chairman was elected as a director to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association Checkoff Board.

In addition to electing new directors and officers, the board approved a $1.3 million budget to be invested on programs focusing around food safety and health, satisfying consumer expectations, ensuring producer profitability, adding value to the chuck and the round, issues management, and increasing stakeholder value. Some specific programs include a school food safety campaign, a minor league baseball promotion, a beef quality assurance initiative, and new beef and veal product rollout.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council is a producer-controlled and funded organization, which administers the $1 per head beef checkoff program in Pennsylvania.

"Beef 2000" Scheduled

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Cattlemen from all segments of the beef industry will have the opportunity to participate in a three-day course January 18 - 20, 1999 at Penn State University. BEEF 2000 is coordinated by the Pennsylvania Beef Council in cooperation with Penn State Department of Animal Science and PA Cattlemen's Association.

The program will provide producers with an opportunity to follow several head of finished beef cattle from the point of departure from the farm to the packing plant and finally to the consumer. Cattlemen will evaluate these cattle live, including ultrasound work and then observe the slaughter process in the packer's shoes, as well as grade and inspect the carcasses with a USDA inspector and grader. Producers will then fabricate the carcasses into wholesale and retail cuts, assessing a value to the product through each step

This hands-on "ranch-to-rail" program is an outstanding opportunity to help cattlemen become more efficient in their business practices, while mingling with other cattlemen The registration cost is $40 per person for Pennsylvania producers and $100 for out-of-state producers and agri-business persons, plus overnight accommodations The Beef Council has tried diligently to keep the costs of this program down with the help of PA Cattlemen's Association and several animal health companies Applications are available by contacting Tammy Weaver, Director of Industry Relations at the PA Beef Council, (717) 939-7000 Space is limited to the first 36 participants, which will be determined on a first-come, first-served basis. Deadline for reservations is December 31, 1998.

Ultrasound Making Waves in Pork Production

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ultrasound machines could benefit pork producers and packers by predicting fat-free lean pork content in live pigs and carcasses, said Ohio State University Extension swine genetics specialist Steve Moeller.

"Lean content in hogs is how the producer is paid today," Moeller said. "The amount of fat-free lean pork in a pig determines the price a producer receives at the market."

Using ultrasound to accurately measure fat-free lean content in live pigs would help producers decide what pigs to keep as breeding animals. Previously, fat-free lean content could only be determined by measuring the pig's carcass after it had been killed.

Packers could use ultrasound lean predictions to help determine the value of carcasses, so producers would be paid based on the weight and value of their product.

Moeller and researchers from Purdue University studied two types of ultrasound machines, A-mode and real-time, to see which one gave the most accurate predictions of fat-free lean content on live pigs and carcasses. Results of their work were presented by Ohio State University graduate student Rebecca Emnett, July 28 at the American Society of Animal Science and American Dairy Science Association annual meeting in Denver, Colo.

"We found the real-time machine is a better predictor of lean content than the A-mode because it predicted more accurately and with less variation between the live pig and the carcass," Moeller said. "And, both machines were better at predicting fat-free lean on a lie animal than on a carcass, which is good information for the industry to know."

While carcass measurement was shown to still give the best results, the real-time machine gave a good estimate, he said. Standard carcass testing measured fat-free lean content in pigs with 87 percent to 91 percent accuracy, while real-time was 86 percent accurate on live pigs and 85 percent accurate on carcasses. A-mode machines were only 68 percent accurate on live pigs and 60 percent on carcasses.

"The use of real-time ultrasound in a genetic selection program for lean content is very good when used on live pigs," Moeller said. "This could allow producers to enhance the efficiency of lean production through ultrasonic evaluation in a selection program."

While less accurate, the benefits of an A-mode ultrasound are that it is more portable and much less expensive — $2,000 versus $12,000 — than a real-time machine.

"A large investment in advanced technology has been proven more accurate, but producers have to make a decision of what type of data they want and at what cost," he said. "And until recently, real-time machines were large and difficult to maneuver in swine facilities, but units now can be worn similar to a backpack and are easier to move."

For producers who think both machines are too expensive to buy, there are 25 certified ultrasound technicians in the United States who travel the country and can provide an ultrasound service at a relatively low cost of $3 to $5 per pig, Moeller said.

"The cost of the service is often based on the number of pigs measured

Use What You Have For Holiday Decor

Christena Stamm fills a clear glass vase with pinecones then tops a variety of greens and holly.

Showcase some of your favorite holiday crafts by placing a wreath around the base.

Give new life to old wreaths by removing discolored ribbons and balls and replacing with gingham ribbon and other materials.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — You don't need a lot of money to fill your home with holiday warmth if you're Sylvia Updegrove.

She transforms ordinary flea market finds and attic treasures into unique decorations and gifts.

You can perform the same delightful touches with her ideas and those presented by others at separate holiday programs sponsored by Berks, Lebanon, and Dauphin County extensions.

To transform your home into a holiday delight, you may not have the exact items presented here but these ideas can get your creative juices flowing so that your home can be an expression of you.

"Never throw anything away," said Sylvia, a retired extension home economist. "Use what you have."

Decorate With Collectibles

• Have some of Granny's tin baking pans? If not, make some newer ones look old by soaking in vingar. Insert tatted circles or buttons inside muffin tins and hang on the wall.

• Take a tin or copper Jell-O mold, and plop a small wreath or greens inside. Make a bow by tearing a long strip of fabric from homespun. Add holiday ornaments or pine cones and hang on the wall.

• Hang old tinware and utensils from green roping.

• Unconventional uses for yesterday's bedspreads, linens, and doilies: Cut apart individual segments of doilies and make ornaments for the tree or to decorate Christmas stockings. Or use the lace behind a small grapevine wreath.

Use old linen napkins and fill with potpourri and tie into a ball. Use to make a dress for a small teddy bear and add some lace and old buttons.

Use an old chenille bedspread to make some snowmen and top with a hat made from a circle of felt that is gathered and pulled together to slip on its head. Place several snowmen in a basket.

• Take vintage canning jars and fill with old Christmas balls or some lace or buttons.

• Bring new life to timeworn teddy bears, dolls, toys, and books by displaying them in a novel way. Tie a fabric snowman to an old skate and add a miniature tree. Or tie on a teddy bear, glue on some old blocks, jacks, tinker toys, and marbles.

Wrap an old book with raffia, and add a note that reads: A friend is a rare book of which only one copy is made.

Some other clever sayings to attach to appropriate gifts include: "Grandmothers are like buttons—they hold things together." Or, "The best antique is an old friend." Or "When I give to you, what I make with my hands, I share with my heart."

• Recycle items in unusual ways. Group together three funnels. Add greens and jute bows.

• Take an old potato masher, spatula, or sieve. Tie on a gingerbread man, Spanish moss, rose hips, and static. Hang with jute.

• Unique ornaments: Tinker toy and erector set pieces. Tattered Monopoly card tied with a bow and game houses glued on top. Teddy bears and other stuffed animals snuggled into tree branches.

Sylvia said that if you want a new item to look old, spray with Design Master woodtone.

Add Holiday Aura

• Dim the lights and place fragant candles in every room.

• Light a fire.

• Play Christmas music.

• Simmer cinnamon and apples on the stove.

• Hang holiday cards and old photographs with colorful ribbons taped to a doorway, window, or a mirror.

• Hang ornament in an unexpected location such as door handles, backs of chairs, or from curtain rods.

• Tie an ornament around a napkin as a napkin ring or tie to gift bow on a package.

• Accent candles with fresh greens, berries, and pinecones.

• Bundle together herbs and cinnamon sticks and place on tabletop or hang on the wall.

• Dress in festive colors. Tie a ribbon around the dog or cat's neck. Put bells on the children's shoes.

• Fill a basket with Christmas balls or pinecones and use as a centerpiece.

• Wreaths and garlands made from fresh greens, decorated with fruit or small ornaments, are perfect for fireplace mantles and armoires.

• Stacks of plates, crystal goblets filled with ornaments, and silverware tied with a bow are unique decorations and add charm

(Turn to Page B4)

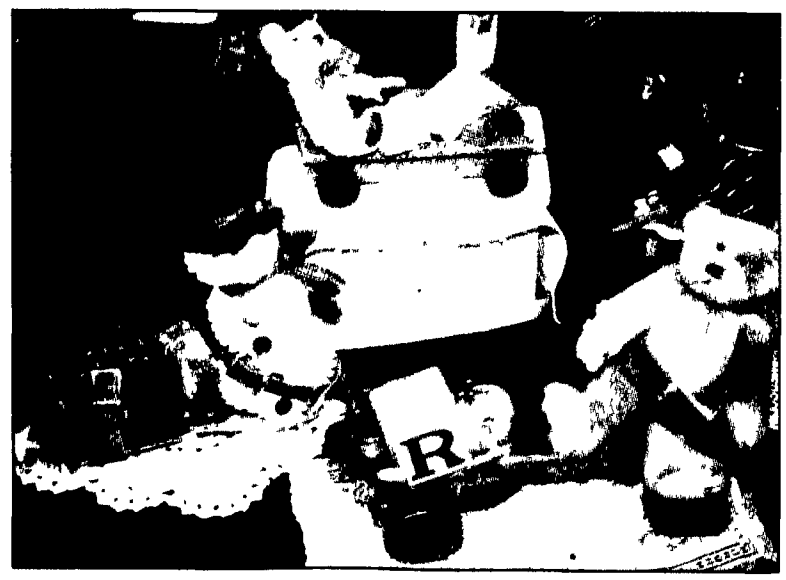
Group together three funnels, add greens and jute bows for a festive holiday touch.



Bring new life to timeworn toys by displaying them in novel ways.

Holiday Plant Safety

Myths still persist about holiday plants being poisonous. Certain holiday plants believed to be fatal if eaten are relatively harmless, while others are truly toxic.

Children and pets can't make the distinction between what's dangerous and what isn't. It's best to keep all plants out of their reach. Many people persist in believing that the most popular Christmas plant, the poinsettia, is extremely poisonous. People who are allergic to the plant's milky sap can develop a rash if it gets on their hands. But the poinsettia isn't fatal if eaten. If children or pets eat any part of the plant, at worst they might experience some stomach discomfort.

In 1975, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission exonerated the poinsettia of the false charge that it's lethal if ingested. The commission also refuted allegations that the berries of American mistletoe are fatal if eaten. But, that doesn't mean mistletoe berries are edible. Mistletoe should be hung out of reach of children and pets, and berries that drop should be removed from the floor immediately.

About 400 plant species in the United States are known to be poisonous. Among them are holly, ivy, Jerusalem cherry, laurel, rhododendron and yew — all commonly used in holiday decorations.

If a child or pet accidentally ingests these plants, consult a physician or veterinarian immediately. Do not induce vomiting without the advice of a doctor. If a plant containing corrosive juices has been eaten, vomiting can damage the digestive tract.

The Poison Information Center for central Pennsylvania can be reached by calling 1-800-521-6110.

Several other holiday safety tips are important to remember. All incandescent lights give off heat. Avoid letting holiday plants dry out. Move plants away from heat sources.

Your Christmas tree's freshness depends on the type of care you provide. Delay bringing the tree indoors as long as possible. The tree should have a fresh cut across the bottom, about 1-inch above the old base. Next, place the tree in a stand with a large reservoir of water. Depending upon the size, species, and location of the tree, it may absorb a gallon of water in the first day. Check it frequently and re-water with pure tap water. As long as the tree is able to absorb and transpire water, it is reasonably fire resistant.

Locate your Christmas tree in a safe place, preferably near a wall or corner where it is not likely to be knocked over. Keep the tree away from heat sources like hot air ducts, wood stoves, and fireplaces. Similarly, light cords and connections used in decorating the tree should be in working condition. Lights should always be turned off at bedtime or when leaving for an extended period of time.

Any questions can be directed to Thomas S. Beiler, horticultural agent, Penn State Cooperative Extension, York County (717) 840-7408 or Email at Yorkmg@psu.edu.

Use What You Have For Holiday Decor

to the dining area.

• Wrap strings of white lights around houseplants, or combine lights with greens around a bathroom mirror or a banister to add a festive touch.

Floral Arrangements

Use cheap, ugly containers to transform into the base of a beautiful floral arrangement by setting inside a wicker tray or basket.

Spray old containers, candleholders, etc. gold and texture by rubbing paint with toothbrush.

Color of container should not compete with flowers. For table centerpiece, match your china. Scale size to the table—not too small or it will get lost and not so large to interfere with conversation and serving of food.

Centerpiece must not touch place settings or dip into the water glasses. For a very long table, place candles in a multiple holder in the middle and identical flower arrangements spaced at each end. Use texture and contrast such as glossy foliage with coarse petals.

Keep dark colors low, as they appear heavier.

Use containers in a different capacity. For example, use a wicker tray as the background for an arrangement.

Christena Stamm suggests filling a clear glass jar or vase with pinecones then topping with a variety of greens and holly, and a large bow.

Some points to help make eye-appealing floral arrangements include the following:

• Use larger, darker flowers in center and smaller ones at edges.

•Make arrangement flow. Don't cram too full.

• Don't be afraid of heights. Arrangements can be taller than the guide of two and a half times the height of the container. If the arrangement looks top heavy, it is too high. Try different layers.

"For holiday decorating, be resourceful. Use what you have," said Sylvia Updegrove.

Permanent Arrangements

Say permanent, not artificial, when referring to lasting arrangements.

The key to beautiful silks is to shape the flower. Do not bend the stem, but curve gently.

Holiday Flair

Place a votive candle in candleholder or bud vase and surround with greens.

Sarah Vakili, master gardener, cautions that flowers and apples do not mix well. Apples cause flowers to wilt fast, so do not combine in an arrangement.

Spray holly and ivy with cooking spray for a glossy look. But do not spray tree as people brushing against it will get oily and it can disfigure ornaments.

Soak greens and holly in water with a bit of vinegar overnight to make them last longer and to kill bacteria.

Decorate Tree

According to Dianne Marqueet, Greta McMullan, and Sandra Strouphar of Expressions in Mt. Aetna, the benefits of silk arrangements are that they can be made ahead of time and used repeatedly.

Decorate tree with sheer wide fabric woven through branches and fluffed around bottom of tree.

For a country tree, cotton batting, gingham, homespun, grapevine, and raffia woven through branches is effective.

For a more formal tree, spray old artificial flowers, weeds, and dried materials gold.

Hang a large bow at top of tree and let ribbon streamers hang down through tree.

The tree can be decorated full or sparse, depending on your preference.

Combine two ribbon patterns and insert at top or throughout tree.

Set angel into tree instead of on top.

Take things you use year-round such as signs from garden and place on tree branches.

Garlands and Swags

Take apart an old grapevine wreath and twist it through greens or spray gold for a new look.

Strings of cranberries, popcorn or dried fruits such as citrus and apples slices add flair as does pinecones or dried hot peppers.

Use premade permanent garlands and attach fresh greens. You don't need to use traditional holiday greens. Try ivy or bramble branches.

Accent with pheasant feathers, astible, roses, and hydrangea.

Makes swags by wiring greens together, decorate with fruit picks, ribbon, or put single flower in center of swag. Add beads, ribbons, or preserved flowers and weeds if desired.

Floral style comes by combining usual items in an arrangement.

Put table swag in front of table or use as centerpiece.

Place a wreath around the punch bowl or around a decorative snowman or other items you have to make an eyecatching display.

Berries and apples attach to wreaths and swags are always in vogue.

Jill Yost of Centerton Nursery said that for instant decorating, take floral or vegetable and fruit garlands and weave through tree or wreaths.

Work in odd numbers when decorating, such as attaching three bows and five snowflakes to a wreath. Lay star garland around wreath for extra glitter.

From these ideas, you can see that there are no absolute rules when decorating. Use what you have. Be resourceful.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

The glory is fading fast.

A day before the chilly showers swept through last week, maple leaves piled around the house echoed the bright yellow of the paper-husk bow on the front door wreath. But overnight, the brief bout of moisture faded the pliable, cheery-golden leaves – last in the neighborhood to let loose of the trees – to crackly brown ghosts of summer past.

In the brilliant sunshine that followed and poured across the fading glory of fall, it was apparent why certain colors have become the classic "autumn" decorators shades of the season.

For beyond every window, the freshly-washed landscape was garbed in muted browns and beiges, traces of oranges, with a few lingering flashes of tired maroon chrysanthemums.

Now the woodlot has slipped into its dormant, gray-black hues, accented at intervals with clusters of leathery-brown, dried oak leaves. Though their glory, too, is past, the dead leaves of these oaks cling with fierce tenacity to their home twigs, enduring the blustery breezes that sweep across the meadow as winter approaches.

Our contoured field strips, which curl out around the hillsides, have likewise settled into their somber post-harvest colorations. Most of them are a tweedy-texture of green and beige, dead brown grass stems interspersed with fresh green growth. We've been grazing the "girls" over them for both exercise and their munching harvest of the remaining fresh forage. Rye, sown for cover crop and grazing, and the fifth-cutting of alfalfa, which never grew tall enough to justify harvesting with the haying equipment, combine to yield tasty forage direct-cut by the cows themselves.

Rows of pudgy round-bales of hay are lined up outside the temporary pasture walkway, each with a dead-brown outer layer forming a rain-resistant roof for the nutritious forage wrapped within. Frost forming on the bales periodically in the last weeks have bleached their curving tops an un-autumn-like whitish shade, constant reminder that less pleasant temperatures are a mere weather whim away.

The rows of big bales provide unique opportunities to wildlife, quick to take advantage of favorable environments. Mice which set up housekeeping among the bales add to the attraction for other species, including a couple of the barn cats which make regular patrols around the hay stash. Hawks — sharp-shinned and an occasional redtail — sometimes check-out the bales, as well. On a few occasions, we've even spotted a fox stretched out over the top of a bale, enjoying the soft, dry bed with a high-rise view of potential prey.

In dramatic contrast to the fading shades of autumn is the brilliant green of the grass, thriving in the cool nights and unseasonably warm days of this fading, but lingering fall. Sections of the rye cover-crop outside the fenced grazing pasture tempt the cows to explore beyond the fence — where the grass really is greener at the moment.

And in concession to the lush grass, I made yet another (and hopefully last!) round of the lawn with the mower, trimming the growth while chopping the leaves that littered every square foot of yard. A split-second before shredding one particular clump of leaves, I realized that the maple droppings concealed a stack of canna roots I'd dug up some days before and left to dry.

Those would have to wait for another balmy afternoon, because there were dahlia roots to clean and store away, tulip bulbs, which The Farmer found on sale, while purchasing repair parts, to pot for forcing, numerous houseplants desperately in need of repotting, and some hardy annuals to be dug, potted, and moved to the greenhouse for winter color

The canna roots eventually worked their way up to the top of the "jobs to do now" list.

But not until they'd been dug out from under several more accumulations of fading fall-out.

Thank goodness it was leaves that fell. And not a snowdrift.

Holiday Cookies

Warm up your oven, get out your mixing spoons and cookie cutters and join 82 percent of the women and 39 percent of men who bake during the holidays.

Cookie baking is a tradition that adds joy to the holidays.

In addition to nibbling on cookies served with milk or hot chocolate, here are some other ideas:

• Tuck an assortment of cookies into a basket or tin lined with shiny tissue paper.

• Take along a tray of cookies to a holiday open house, school function or office party. Use colored paper or foil candy cups to display bar cookies and chocolates.

For more creative ideas and holiday recipes, call the Land O' Lakes Holiday Bakeline at 1-800-782-9606. All callers will receive a free "Joy of Holiday Baking" recipe leaflet complete with festive treats that make great gifts.

GRAMMY'S SANDTARTS

2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
3 eggs, reserve 1 egg white
4 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder

Mix together by hand. Roll into logs and chill. Roll dough thin and cut out favorite shapes. Place cutouts on cookie sheet. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with colored sugar or cinnamon. Bake at 325 degrees until light brown.

This is a great way to let kids help with baking and start a Christmas tradition.

2 cups honey graham cereal
1 cup red and green candy-coated chocolate pieces
1 cup pretzel sticks, broken in half
½ cup butter
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour

In very large bowl, combine popcorn, candy, and pretzels; set aside.

In 2-quart saucepan, melt butter over medium heat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Continue cooking; stirring occasionally, until mixture comes to a full boil (2 to 4 minutes). Boil 1 minute.

Pour caramel mixture over popcorn mixture; toss to coat well. Press into buttered 13x9-inch pan. Cool completely; cut into bars. 36 bars.

HOLIDAY COOKIE POPS

1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup butter, melted
¼ cup honey
1 package yellow OR chocolate cake mix
2 eggs
Decorator sugars and candies
Wooden craft sticks

Heat oven to 375 degrees. In large bowl, combine all ingredients except decorator sugars and wooden sticks. Stir until well mixed.

Shape dough into 1-inch balls; roll in decorator sugars. Place 2 inches apart on cookie sheets. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes or until edges are lightly browned.

Immediately and carefully insert wooden sticks halfway into side of each cookie. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheets.

4 dozen.

Tip: For gift giving, once cookies are cooled, write a special message on wooden stick. Wrap holiday pops in colored plastic food wrap, cellophane or gift bags and tie with ribbons.

Tip: If desired, shape balls of dough into stars, trees, wreath, etc. Bake as directed.

KIDS FAVORITE OATMEAL BROWN SUGAR COOKIES

Cookies:

1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup butter, softened
1 egg
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
2 cups quick cooking oats OR old-fashioned rolled oats
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Stir-ins:

1 cup of the following: raisins, cut-up gumdrops, green or red chocolate covered candies, chocolate-covered raisins, chopped nuts, chocolate, butterscotch or vanilla chips, toffee chips, cut-up candy bars, etc.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. In large mixer bowl, combine brown sugar, butter, egg, and lemon peel. Beat at medium speed, scraping bowl often, until creamy (1 to 2 minutes). Reduce speed to low; add all remaining ingredients except stir-ins. Beat until well mixed (1 to 2 minutes).

By hand, stir in desired stir-ins from list above.

Drop by tablespoonsfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets.

Bake 10 to 14 minutes or until lightly golden brown on edges. Cool one minute before removing from cookie sheet. Cool completely.

CREATE-YOUR-OWN BARS

Makes 16 bars

Crust:

1⅓ cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
½ cup butter, softened

Filling:

Choice of variation (see below)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In small mixer bowl, combine all crust ingredients. Beat at low speed until mixture is crumbly. Press on bottom of 9-inch square baking pan. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Follow directions for variations:

• Lemon: In small mixer bowl combine ¾ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, and ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Beat at low speed until well mixed. Pour filling over hot crust. Continue baking 18-20 minutes or until filling is set. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Cool completely; cut into bars.

• Pecan: In small mixer bowl, combine ¾ cup dark corn syrup, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat at medium speed until well mixed. By hand, stir in 1 cup chopped pecans. Pour filling over hot crust. Continue baking 30-35 minutes or until set. Cool; cut into bars.

• Cherry Coconut: In small mixer bowl, combine ¾ cup flaked coconut, ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon almond extract, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat at medium speed until well mixed. By hand, stir in ½ cup sliced almonds and ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries, well drained. Spread over hot crust. Conbine baking for 20 to 30 minutes or until set. In medium bowl, stir together 1 cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons water, and ½ teaspoon almond extract. Drizzle over hot bars. Cool; cut into bars.

Winter Brings A Silent Killer

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) – Carbon monoxide, known as the silent killer, is an indoor pollutant that becomes more of a hazard as winter approaches, says an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Carbon monoxide reacts with the hemoglobin in blood, reducing the body's capacity to distribute oxygen throughout the body. In high concentrations, it will cause unconsciousness and death.

Carbon monoxide is one of the deadliest indoor pollutants because it is colorless and odorless and can build up concentrations within a single room or throughout the entire house. The symptoms of low-level concentrations–fatigue, dizziness, headaches and nausea–often are mistaken as individuals maladies.

"People often don't read the clues properly. You assign the headache to a stressful day. You assign the dizziness to too little coffee," said Adams Penn State professor. "You go to bed in this polluted environment to get better, and if you're lucky, you'll wake up in the morning."

Adams said carbon monoxide is produced by combustion, particularly the burning of wood and fossil fuels. Such products as woodstoves, fireplaces, chimneys, stoves, furnaces, water heaters and kerosene or gas space heaters can become deadly if homeowners are not vigilant.

Adams said every homeowner should invest in carbon monoxide detectors (which are very different than smoke detectors). She recommends placing one in each bedroom at a minimum.

Homeowners can check for carbon monoxide themselves, Adams said, by careful observation. If any gas-operated appliance burns with a yellow flame, the appliance needs and adjustment. "If the flame isn't blue, it's item to call for service," Adams said.

Woodstoves and fireplaces also are carbon monoxide producers, and Adams says only heating professionals or masonry contractors should check for possible leaks. "Homeowners can check for creosote buildup and bird and animal nests," she says.

Adams says that homeowners should ensure that fireplaces have a proper air draft. In addition, all open fireplaces should have glass fire doors. "Make sure you burn 100 percent wood products. Never burn laminated wood or pressure-treated wood, because they contain hazardous chemicals," Adams said.

Kerosene heaters also can be dangerous polluters if used improperly. Adams says such space heaters must use only the proper fuel and should be strictly maintained by the homeowner.

"Kerosene heaters must be vented to an exterior air source," Adams points out. "Opening one window isn't going to help unless there is a cross draft. You're really polluting your environment unless there is a good indoor-outdoor air exchange."

Adams says ventilation and proper maintenance are the keys to reducing carbon monoxide risk. She suggests that homeowners check appliances yearly, adjusting them when necessary. She also recommends making room in the budget for carbon monoxide detectors in every room.

"It can be a big expense, but how can you put a value on a human life?" she said.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Mifflin County 4-H Baby Beef Club

The Mifflin County 4-H Baby Beef Club, banquet was conducted Nov. 20 at Lewistown Hoss's Steak & Sea House.

There were about 75 people in attendance.

A punch bowl and social was held.

After dinner there was the presentation of awards. Awards were given for the best books of 1998. Winners included first-year member (a tie) Adam Felmlee and Laural Tate, intermediate Adriene Shank, and senior Emily Vandegrift. Fifteen dollars was put in their beef club account as an award.

Pins were given out to first year members, five year members, and a ten-year member. Entertainment was Old McDonald's Farm. The animals were played by the following: Tim Plank, Emily Vandegrift, Adam Felmlee, Nikki Houser, Cassandra Houser, Doug Brubaker, and Steven Dupert was Old McDonald.

The Nov. 5 meeting of the beef club was held at the Mifflin County extension office. The election of the 1998-1999 officers was held.

Results of the election are president, Lucas Parkes; vice president, Lisa Macknair, secretary, Amy Reed; assistant secretary, Natalie Byler; treasurer, Steven Dupert; and news reporter, Lisa Macknair.

Final plans were made for the banquet in November at the Lewistown Hoss's.

New members filled out enrollment cards. Members must sign up by Dec. 31. You must have your steer in your care by Jan. 1. TB shots were also given out.

A video was viewed on caring for your animals. Many interesting and helpful points were brought up in the video.

QUESTION — Rose Diehl, Bloomsburg, wants recipes for turkey scrapple and turkey bologna.

Cocoa Fudge

⅔ cup baking cocoa
3 cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine cocoa, sugar, and salt in a large saucepan (3-quart size). Add milk gradually, mix thoroughly. Bring to a bubbly boil on high heat, stirring constantly.

Reduce heat to medium and continue to boil the mixture without stirring until it reaches 232 degrees or a small amount of mixture forms a soft ball dropped into cold water. Be sure the ball of thermometer is not resting on bottom of saucepan.

Remove saucepan from heat. Add butter and vanilla to mixture. Do not stir. Allow fudge to cool at room temperature until it reaches 110 degrees. Beat by hand or with a portable electric mixer until the fudge thickens and loses some of its gloss. Quickly pour and spread fudge into tightly buttered 8x8x2-inch pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Yields about 3 dozen squares.

ANSWER — Thanks to Lori Rose, Perkiomenville, for sending in this recipe.

Chocolate Pound Cake

1 cup butter, softened
3 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs
1 cup unsweetened cocoa
3 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 10-inch tube pan.

In a large bowl, cream the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add the vanilla. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix in the cocoa.

Sift together the dry ingredients. Add them to the batter alternately with the milk, beating until well incorporated.

Turn the batter into the prepared pan and bake for 70-80 minutes or until cake tests done.

Cool on wire rack for 20 minutes before removing cake from pan.

ANSWER — Lois Crone, Wellsville, sent this recipe requested by Beverly Strauss.

Luscious Lemon Pie

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt
1 cup milk
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
⅓ cup lemon juice
¼ cup butter
Grated peel of one lemon
1 cup sour cream
9-inch pastry shell, baked

Topping:

⅔ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
⅛ teaspoon almond flavoring, optional

In the top of a double boiler, combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Stir in milk, egg yolks, and lemon juice. Cook and stir over boiling water until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat and stir in butter and lemon peel. Cool, stirring occasionally. When mixture is room temperature, stir in sour cream. Pour into shell and refrigerate several hours or overnight. For topping, whip cream until thick; beat in sugar and almond flavoring if desired. Continue to beat until stiff. Spread or pipe with pastry bag on pie before serving. Yield: 6-8 servings.

TROPICAL DROPS

½ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup granulated sugar
2 large eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1½ cups all-purpose flour, divided
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
4-ounces chopped dates
4-ounces candied papaya, chopped
4-ounces candied mango, chopped
4-ounces candied pineapple, chopped
4-ounces dried apricots, chopped
8-ounces madadamia nuts, chopped
8-ounces white chocolate bits

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease baking sheets and lightly flour. In a large mixing bowl, cream butter and gradually add sugars and beat until creamy. Beat in eggs and vanilla.

Take ½ cup flour and work it into the fruits and nuts to help separate pieces. Sift together remaining flour, baking soda, and salt. Beat into butter mixture. Stir in mixed fruit, nuts, and white chocolate bits. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls on to prepared baking sheets. Bake 8-10 minutes. Remove to cool on wire rack.

LEMON MERINGUE DROPS

2 egg whites, room temperature
½ teaspoon lemon flavoring
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅔ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon lemon zest
Small lemon grum drops
Yellow decorating sugar

Line baking sheets with parchment paper. Preheat oven to 300 degrees.

In medium mixing bowl, combine room temperature egg whites, lemon flavoring, and cream of tartar. Beat with electric mixer until soft peaks form. Beating at high speed gradually, add sugar a tablespoonful at a time. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in lemon zest.

Drop rounded teaspoon meringue on prepared baking sheets 1½-inch apart. Place a gumdrop into middle of each meringue layer and place a second rounded teaspoon of meringue over top of gumdrop locking it inside and swirl the the top. Sprinkle with yellow sugar.

Bake 18-20 minutes or until they start to turn brown. Turn off oven and let dry for 10 minutes with door closed. Transfer to wire rack to cool. Yields 2½ dozen.

Family Living Focus

Home For The Holidays

Most of us are looking forward to celebrating the holiday season. After all, it is a good time for families to get together to strengthen family ties and affections. With children returning home from college and other relatives coming home to visit, it can be a very joyous occasion. It also can often bring on stress and strain that may at times seem to outweigh the goodwill in our hearts.

What can we do to cut down on the stress during the holiday season?

Many times stress is caused simply being overtired especially when traveling to see friends and relatives for the holidays. If you are traveling, save a couple of days just for recuperating. While visiting, don't overstay your welcome and let your hosts know when you will be coming and leaving. Don't depend on hosts to keep you entertained. Remember to help out as much as possible. (They have a certain amount of stress in their lives just getting ready for you to visit—you don't want to add more to their list).

There will be some problems when a number of people are cooped up together for an extended period of time. This can be magnified when family members have been away for a period of time and then re-enter the family system. A simple thing like a child coming home from school for the holiday vacation can throw everyone's routine into a spin. This child comes home assuming he will resume his place in the family exactly as it was before he left home. But the reality is that for you there is one more person to feed, pick up after, and make demands on your time and patience. You certainly are elated that he is home, but the reality is that there is a temporary "adjustment period" for everyone in the family.

Another suggestion is to help set a slower pace at your house. Build in some "creative" breaks during your holiday. For example, take the kids out to the movies or go bowling. (The housework can wait for another day or ask the person who is the most concerned about the disarray of the house to take care of it). Plan some equal time for the adults in your household as well or just simply take time to rest. Don't overbook yourself and your family!

Meaningful family activities will help keep the holidays from becoming boring and producing stress related conflict. Research has shown that strong families are those who take time to express love and appreciation for each other. Try this idea. Get all the family members together and select one person to be the recipient. Every family member then takes turns tell that person what they are thankful for about that person being present and celebrating the holidays with them. Go on to the next person until everyone has been included.

This exercise will add true meaning to the family holiday celebration and be an excellent gift to one another.

Have a wonderful holiday!

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 6

Berks County Farm Women Society 6 celebrated Farm Women's Day on Oct. 14, with a luncheon at Fiara's Restaurant, Fleetwood. Nine members attended then went to the home of Marian Gehris for a meeting.

The November meeting was at the home of Dorothy Wagner. The group made Christmas favors for Meals on Wheels and also a cookie exchange. Henry Hock gave an interesting and informative talk on living wills and power of attorney.

The Christmas party will be Dec. 12, at Wegman's Restaurant.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women Society 26 met in October at Sunny Crest Restaurant and Training Center, Lancaster County. After the luncheon and meeting, the group toured the center. Nine members and one guest were present. Cathy Sholly and Martha Yost were in charge of the program.

Nine members also attended the York County Convention held at Wischaven Hall, York, on Nov. 5.

The November meeting was held at the home of Athena Beshore. Eighteen members attended and Beverly Lockman was a guest. Ruth Traver was presented with her 80-year-old special award pin.

Doris Goodlander will be hostess for the December meeting to be held in her home.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Farm Women Society, Number 8 met on November 11 at the Union Meeting House in Marietta for a luncheon prepared by hostesses Mary Anne Spangler, Nellie Blake, and Margaret Heisey.

Members visited the Music Box Museum and Old Town Hall gift shop.

Kids Enter Mini-Milk Mustache Contest

Amanda Schrecongost from Creekside shows off her milk moustache. The 3½ -year-old said that she drinks milk because, "It's my favorite and it makes my tummy tickle!"

EMLENTON (Cambria Co.) — Picture this: The youngest Americans — kids, ages 1 to 5 — aren't getting enough calcium in their diet.

To help parents literally "get the picture" about this essential nutrition information, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program teamed up to host a regional Mini Milk Mustache Photo Contest.

PDPP partnered with the Pennsylvania WIC program to extend the How to Grow a Healthy Child Campaign to teach moms about milk's critical role in their own health and the growth and development of their young children. Families were invited to turn their "half pints" into the next milk mustache model by snapping a photo of their child wearing a milk mustache and writing the child's answer to the question "Why do you drink milk?"

Pittsburgh Steeler Carnell Lake, campaign spokesperson, was on-hand to present awards to the following pint-sized milk mustache celebrities: Gabriel Hugh Clements, 21 months, New Castle; Michael William Debruyn, 2, White Oak; De'Naja Richardson, 4, Pittsburgh; Amanda Schrecongost, 3, Creekside; and Kalena Mae Zeigler, 4, Ellwood City.

The winners will be entered into the national contest sponsored by the National Dairy Council, Milk Processor Education Program, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development and the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. The national winner will become the next milk mustache model, joining the ranks of milk mustache celebrities including child star Jonathan Lipnicki and Bart Simpson. The national winner will be announced in April 1999.

Get To Know 'Flighty' Neighbors

ITHACA, N.Y. – If you see your neighbor standing in her backyard waving a feather in the air, don't dial 911. She's probably participating in the Cornell Nest Box Network (CNBN), a continent-wide project of the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology in which participants get to watch birds!

CNBN participants gather information about bluebirds, chickadees, wood ducks, and other birds that use nest boxes. They share their data with scientists at the Cornell Lab, who analyze them and share the results with participants and the scientific community and conservation groups

"Learning as much as we can about these fascinating birds helps us make responsible conservation decisions," says Dr. David Winkler, associate professor of ecology and systematics at Cornell University and a scientist.

One nest box is all it takes!

CNBN provides the details you need to find a good nest box and put in the best location. The research kit also explains how to collect information on a number of different topics, such as clutch size and feathers used in nests.

"We learn more every year as CNBN nest-box monitors send in their data," says Tracey Kast, a CNBN research biologist. So far, they've learned that in 1997 some or all of the nestlings fledged in 72% of tree swallow and eastern bluebird nests–an encouraging rate of success. Early results also revealed that tree swallows in northern latitudes laid more eggs per clutch than birds nesting in southern latitudes.

"We need people from all across the continent to collect data, so we can continue to get these kinds of broad-scale results," says Kast. "We would like to see every nest-box owner in North America participate in CNBN."

The CNBN research kit includes information how to build or purchase a good nest box as well as where to place it. It also explains when participants can expect their new "neighbors" to move in and which species to expect. How and when to monitor the nest box, how to collect valid scientific data, and how to share these data with Lab scientists are also explained in the research kit. Software and data forms are included in the research kit.

In return for becoming a partner with CNBN scientists, participants receive a subscriptions to Birdscope, the Lab's quarterly newsletter which contains CNBN results and features engaging articles about birds and other citizen-science projects. Participants also can become part of an e-mail discussion group that allows them to interact with other nest-box "landlords" and CNBN scientists.

A $20 participation fee ($15 for renewals) helps offset the cost of materials.

People of all ages, including individuals, families, and youth groups are contributing valuable information to the study of birds from their own backyards. Carol Cash, a CNBN citizen scientist, says, "My husband built nest boxes over the years, and we always enjoyed watching them from a distance. Now, by participating in CNBN, we've learned so much about nesting activity. It has been a wonderful experience for both of us, and we look forward to another season with CNBN."

For more information contact Eric Cromwell at (717) 456-9106 or ecrom@starix.net. To sign up for CNBN or other bird-watching projects call the Cornell Lab of Ornithology at (800) 843-BIRD or visit their web site at http://birds.cornell.edu.

Why do gorillas beat their chest?
Chest beating, noisy gorillas might seem angry and mean But they're really shy and timid animals
Scientists have gone into the jungle to watch these gorillas in their natural setting They found that, although gorillas are a relatively quiet animal, they hoot, rumble, laugh, belch and grunt to communicate Because families can't always see each other as they search for food in the dense rainforest, sound helps them keep tabs on each other The scientists also discovered the gorillas communicate visually yawning, tucking in their lips and sticking out their tongues all mean different things
Gorillas beat their chest when they are threatened The stocky, male gorilla will hoot, stand up on his hind legs and throw grass, leaves or branches He'll then pound his chest with his palms He may kick, run from side to side and tear up grass or break branches When he's done, he'll thump the ground with his palms The whole display looks really frightening, especially given the size of a mature male gorilla But instead of encouraging a fight, scientists think it's a ploy to give the other gorillas time to escape and to scare off the trespasser
All gorillas also beat their chests when they want to play They look very different, though Their bodies are relaxed, their faces have 'play faces," and they might even touch each other like they are playing tag
So, the next time you see gorillas pounding their chests at the zoo — or if you're lucky enough to see them in the wilds of Africa — you'll know the show is either because you're on their turf, or they just want to romp!

Mail-Order Foods—Safe Or Suspect?

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Everyone loves getting packages in the mail. Sometimes they are gifts of food — either homemade or from mail order. When it's baked goods or shelf-stable canned items you usually know whether it's safe and what to do with it. But what about smoked turkeys, cheese and sausage gift packs, and other perishable items?

Whether you are giving or receiving, there are some food safety tips you need to keep in mind for these special gifts:

• Check with the company. Ask the mail order company how the gift will be packaged. It should be packed in foam or heavy corrugated cardboard. If it's a perishable item like meat or poultry, it should be cold or frozen and packed with a cold source such as dry ice.

• Speedy Delivery. Ask the company how the food will be mailed. If it's a perishable item, it should be delivered as quickly as possible — ideally overnight. Make sure perishable items and the outer package are labeled "KEEP REFRIGERATED" to alert the recipient.

• How to Store and Serve. Will the food item come with storage and preparation instructions? Some mail order food gift items are of an unusual nature and some recipients may not know how to handle or prepare them.

• No Surprises — Arrange for delivery. Tell the recipient if the company has promised a delivery date. Or alert the recipient that "the gift is in the mail" so that she or a neighbor can be home to receive it. Otherwise it may sit unsafely on the front porch or at the post office for hours or even days. Don't have perishable items delivered to an office unless you know it will arrive on a work day and there's refrigerator space available there for keeping it cold.

When you receive a food gift by mail:

• Check the temperature. According to Kathryn J. Hostetler, Penn State Cooperative Extension, when you receive a food item marked "keep refrigerated," open it immediately and check its temperature. Optimally, the food should arrive frozen or partially frozen with ice crystals still visible, or at least, refrigerator cold to the touch. If perishable food arrives warm, notify the company and/or the person who sent the gift. Do not eat the food.

Rick and LeAnn Koontz operate Seller's Tree Farm.

Making Christmas Wreaths Keep Them Busy

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

DUTCH CORNER (Bedford Co.) — The scent and even the taste of pine linger in the air at 7 Lincoln Drive in Bedford, from mid-November through mid-December.

LeAnn Koontz, together with husband, Rick Koontz, a Pennsylvania State Policeman, and Rick's grandfather, Charles Sellers own and manage Seller's Tree Farm located off Yantz Road in the Dutch Corner area.

Charlie started the tree farm in 1952 and even now as an octogenarian, he enjoys every aspect of this tedious business. From planting to harvesting, Charlie is at the tree farm every weather acceptable day.

A warm autumn sun with the wind playing soft music through the pine trees is good for the soul as he works at mowing and trimming.

Rick started helping his grandad when he was big enough to walk. "I really can't remember a time when I wasn't in there learning all I could," he says.

It was LeAnn who saw a potential for all the waste that Christmas trees produce. "I saw them cut off the bottoms to keep the trees trimmed and I also saw a lot of trees going to waste because a deer ate off of one side or a beetle decided to have lunch on the tree farm," she says.

LeAnn says her mother, Gloria Feight, has always been a crafty person, adding that "Mother is probably a frustrated florist."

Both Gloria and LeAnn's dad, Ron, helped with creating a side business for her daughter and son-in-law known as "Wonderland Wreaths."

LeAnn says it would be an ideal business, "if only we could spread it out a little. All of the work has to be done in a three week period."

Wonderland Wreaths are marketed wholesale through the same Baltimore/Washington D.C. broker, which wholesales the Christmas trees. Other wreaths are sold retail and this year LeAnn came up with another idea.

She created a website on the internet and advertised the wreaths as a fund raiser. For the second year, Summit Quest is marketing the wreaths and this year, the Chesapeake Elementary School in Edgewood, Maryland, caught the website and took on their own project of selling Christmas wreaths.

"This is the fourth year for the business and every year, it has doubled," LeAnn says. In addition to the money raised by the organization, she gives a $25 reward to the high salesman.

Wonderland creations include wreaths with bows ranging in size from 12 inches to four foot, door charms, mantle wreaths, candy canes made from pine, Christmas tree wreaths, swags, and mail box huggies.

Prices range from $6 for a small wreath to $37.90 for a mantle swag. "Most people are happy with only a big red bow," LeAnn says, "but we can add pine cones and holly berries for an additional charge."

"Mom is the resident bow maker," she adds. Gloria and Ron Feight as well as LeAnn and at least three additional hired employees create all of the arrangements for Wonderland Wreaths. This year she expects to make more than 1,000.

"We just eat, sleep and drink pine needles," she says of the business which has grown from a single to a three car garage in four years.

And, of course, Murphy and his discouraging law gets in the way. Last year, nearly everyone was down sick during the wreath-making season.

Rick also pitches in to help when he can get away from the Christmas tree fields.

There are 53 acres of the Sellers farm planted in Christmas trees which includes Douglas Fir, White Pine, Scotch Pine, Blue Spruce , and Frazier Fir.

"Frazier Fir are very popular but do not grow well in this area," LeAnn notes adding this is the reason they are usually more costly.

The Seller farm has grown from doing everything with small equipment or by hand to some powerful tools. Trees are planted with a machine, bound with a machine, and loaded by a mechanical loader onto the tractor trailers which wind their way up the country lane.

"Christmas trees are a lot of work," admit both grandad and grandson. "A lot of people think you just plant them and let them grow, but that's not true. They must be trimmed, the ground kept mowed, and insects are a constant battle."

Harvest begins shortly after the second hard frost. For the Sellers' farm that is usually just before Thanksgiving.

Holiday Bed And Breakfast Tour Features 15 Inns

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Charlene Sweeney is busily preparing Cocalico Creek Bed and Breakfast for Christmas. Graceful white pine roping and red bows line the split-rail fence along the driveway.

If you are one of the passerby's who admire the exterior elegance of Sweeney's and many other Bed and Breakfast homes that populate the county, take advantage of the chance to see the interiors of 15 of these inns during the annual Holiday Bed and Breakfast Tour, Sunday, Dec. 13.

Each featured home will be decorated for the holidays. Many stops will feature artwork or special demonstrations by local craftspersons. Light refreshments will be served.

The tour, sponsored by ARC of Lancaster County, helps raise funds to support services for people with mental retardation, and their families.

Four years ago Charlene purchased the property. Since then she has remodeled the bedrooms, added private bathrooms and central air, closed in a back porch, and added her personal decor.

As much original woodwork and molding as possible was salvaged to retain the aura of the 1927 classic stone home, which is said to have been built by a Brubaker who was a descendent of the man who gave the town of Denver its name.

The spacious foyer features a built-in closet and hat closet, which Charlene uses to display brochures and other information of interest for tourists. A built-in mirror console, typical of the era's architecture, is to the left of the winding stairway that leads to the four guest bedrooms upstairs. On the landing between the floors are window seats for guests to sit and relax.

Each of the bedrooms is named after a bird that inhabits the property. These include Egret, Mallard, Blue Heron, and the Goldfinch, which is the master suite with a private balcony.

Except for the kitchen, which has a red-painted hardwood floor, the home has original hardwood floors refinished to a patina sheen.

Handsomely built corner cupboards, lots of built-in shelves, and cupboards are in almost every room.

Since Charlene's private quarters are on the third floor, the formal living room with a large stone fireplace is reserved for guests. The fireplace was converted to gas to make it easier to operate and maintain. A table with checkers and games and other homey touches lend warmth and comfortability to the inn.

In selecting the decor for each room, Charlene started with an oriental rug and, from it, determined the wallpaper and window treatments to use.

Each room is tastefully decorated, but perhaps the most stunning feature is the wonderful setting of the property. The home's multiple windows overlook cattle grazing in the meadows. A morning mist rises from the the meandering Cocalico creek where waterfowl splash. Along the creek's edge is a spacious yard with shrubs, venerable trees, and a children's play area.

The pastoral setting reminds Charlene of her Conneticut roots, where she grew up working in tomato, tobacco, and strawberry fields.

Charlene moved to the state 13 years ago. She said, "I love it here. It is the peacefulness of the area that attracted me," she said.

"I worked in accounting firms for years and wanted to something that wasn't so stressful," Charlene said of decision to become an inn keeper. "Little did I know!"

Although the daily deadlines of preparing the rooms for overnight guests is a lot more work than Charlene anticipated, she enjoys it.

"I'm a morning person. I like to make breakfast and I like to pamper people," she said of the three ingredients that make her the gracious hostess.

In addition to the gourmet breakfast, Charlene makes her own jams and jellies and gift jar mixtures that guests often purchase to take along home. She continues to work part time, and is compiling a cookbook for the Bed and Breakfast Association. She is recording secretary for the area historical committee and has just resigned from the local planning commission.

In addition to Cocalico Creek Bed and Breakfast, where artist Kay Mohn will display her Redwood Ranch Pottery, the tour will include the following:

• The Artist's Inn and Gallery, 117 E. Main St., Terre Hill. The Federal style home built in 1853 is furnished throughout with antiques and decorative touches. Colored pencil artwork of artist/innkeeper Bruce Garrabrandt will be featured throughout.

• Rocking Horse Bed and Breakfast, 285 W. Main St., New Holland, is a 200-year-old stone Colonial farmhouse, which has three working fireplaces, random width wood floors, and wide windowsills. Watch the owner create antique rocking horses, carousel horses, bedheads, and more.

• Wayne Brook Inn, Rts. 10 and 322, Honey Brook, is a 200-year-old country inn with equisitely appointed guest rooms.

• Fassitt Mansion, 6051 Old Philadelphia Pike, White Horse, is an 1845 country mansion with 12-foot high ceilings and fireplaces in almost every room. Tales of its connection with the Underground Railroad and ghost stories will entertain guests.

• Limestone Inn Bed & Breakfast, 33 E. Main St., Strasburg, is an elegant 200-year-old home placed on the Lancaster County Historic Sites Register. The home has unique Georgian architecture with medieval overtones. Holiday decorations include Byers Carolers, baskets, and natural materials. Wood turner Dan Schaeffer will display wooden bowls and ornaments.

• Flowers and Thyme Bed and Breakfast, 238 Strasburg Pike, Lancaster, will greet guests with the aroma of the holidays. The charming inn is located on a rural acre of land. Antiques, cross-stitch, and quilts add festive holiday touches. See hand-painted clothing and a display of fruit syrups for gift giving.

• O'Flaherty's Dingeldein House, 1105 E. King St., Lancaster, is a 1910 Dutch Colonial. The unique inn was the former residence of the Armstrong family of floor tile fortune and is exquisitely decorated. More than 20 trees, ranging from miniature to 12 feet in size, will be displayed throughout the house. Holly and bows decorate the railings from the first to third floors and the two working fireplaces.

• Rock-A-Bye Bed and Breakfast, 138 W. Frederick St., Millersville, is a Federalist style inn that features a rocking chair in every room. Built in the early 1700s, the home features a Victorian parlor and enchanting primitive folk art by Pat Irwin.

•Mellinger Manor, 1300 Breneman Rd., Conestoga, is an 1893 Victorian (Edwardian) mansion. A four-story rount turret and many other special features are found throughout. It's a true-to-life "doll house."

•B. F. Hiestand House, 722 East Market Street, Marietta, has the splendor of a High-Queen-Ann-style Victorian home built by a wealthy Marietta lumber company in 1888. Stained glass windows, coffered mahogany ceiling, and crown moldings will transport you back to a bygone era. Marietta artist Suzanne Satterfield will show her work in progress and discuss techniques in producing realistic paintings of county scenes.

• The Noble House, 113 W. Market St., Marietta, is a stepback to yesteryear. The 1810 Federal-style brick townhouse has living room pieces dating from 1854. The dining room table is laden with china, crystal, and silver in preparation for holiday guests. A first-floor room is furnished in a 1950s Pullman car. Ed Klimuska will be on hand to autograph his book, "Lancaster County: A Pictorial Guide."

• Lavender Patch Inn, 190 Longenecker Ave., Marietta, will have Charles and Catherine Dickens in costume tc greet guests. Victorian ladies dressed complete with bustle, hat, and gloves enjoying tea in the Victorian tea room will fascinate guests. The home features decorative wall, floor, and furniture painting.

• The Trolley Track Inn, 457 S. Main St., Manheim, is a turn-of-the century inn with ornate fretwork, inlaid hardwood floors, antique fireplace mantel, and Tiffany-style lamp. See a Santa display, an angel collection, Dicken's Heritage Village, Victorian trees, and live keyboard music. Shirley Bischoff in Cloister costume will demonstrate schereneschnitte.

Tickets are $10 in advance and $12 the day of the event from any participating inn.

Christmas Wreaths

"We have an advantage over Michigan," Rick points out. "They have to get their trees out before bad weather sets in and that's a lot earlier than it is here."

Trees that are not brokered to the big city are sold in a "you cut" plan.

"People have a field day cutting their trees," laughs LeAnn. "They bring the dog, the kids, and a video camera. Sometimes they call us to meet them at the farm at 5 p.m. when they get off work. It's dark that time of year and they pick a tree with a flashlight."

Rick takes his vacation and LeAnn hopes for a down time at her regular job at Juniata Recreation during the Christmas tree season

"It's pretty hectic from November through mid-December," Rick says. "But, then, it's all over for another week. We can take a break until it's time to start planting, trimming, and fighting insects all over again."

Moniteau FFA

Diane Cockroft of Butler has been nominated to receive the American Degree awarded by the national FFA Organization.

This honor recognizes demonstrated leadership abilities and outstanding achievements in agricultural business, production, processing, and service programs. Cockroft was scheduled to receive the degree at the 71st National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Only one in 231 FFA members have advanced through chapter and state FFA degrees to earn this national degree. Cockroft, daughter of Frank and Karen Cockroft, is attending Slippery Rock University and majoring in parks and recreation. She is a member of the Moniteau FFA chapter and her agricultural education instructor and FFA adviser is David Adams.

Each recipient receives a gold American FFA Degree key and a certificate. The degree recognition program is cosponsored by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. of Johnston, Iowa; the agricultural products division of American Cyanamid Company of Parsippany, N.J. Case Corporation of Racine, Wisc. and the Farm Credit System of Denver, Colo. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

New Help For Migraine Sufferers

Get Rid Of This Pain In My Head

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — If you are one of the 24 million Americans diagnosed with migraine headaches, Dr. Emily Matlin has good news for you: In the last five years there has been an explosion of effective medications released.

According to Matlin, who spoke on migraines at a recent workshop sponsored by Penn State Extension's Holiday Fest, migraines are often undertreated because a time-consuming evaluation is needed for proper diagnosis.

Migraines are marked by throbbing pain in the temple area that lasts from four to 72 hours. Some of the symptoms may include nausea, visual disturbances such as double vision, difficulty focusing, dazzling displays of colored lights, spots or lines. Some migraine sufferers may even have temporary blindness, weakness, or numbness on one side of the body.

A headache is not the same as a migraine, Matlin said. A migraine is usually one-sided, while tension headaches are generally felt on both sides of the head, especially the forehead, back of the head, and neck. A steady ache or pressure and tightness is characteristic of a headache. A migraine is throbbing pain that is moderate to severe in nature.

Migraines result when there are abnormal discharges in the neurons of the brain. The changes in the biochemicals of the brain set off a chain of events that leads to swollen and inflamed vessels in the head. As a result, muscle contraction in the scalp or neck may occur.

The triggering factors of migraines vary from person to person and, for some, the reason is never determined.

For some people, avoiding certain foods known to be trigger foods can eliminate migraines. Some of the most common food triggers include red wines, strong or aged cheeses, pickled foods, chocolate, smoked and cured foods, and foods containing monosodium glutamate.

Triggering factors for some people are anxiety, depression, shock, over exertion, fatigue, glaring light, loud or high-pitched sounds, penetrating smells, high blood pressure, neck pain, and menstruation.

Migraines are considered predominately a women's illness with three females to every one male diagnosed.

Although young children may have migraines, it is more common to affect them during puberty, young adult, and middle-aged years. Most women have a decrease in episodes after menopause.

"Many people who suffer from migraines fear they have a brain tumor," Matlin said, "but generally a brain tumor is not characterized by severe headaches."

For those who have suffered with migraines for years, Matlin offers reassuring news. "The longer the pattern of headaches, the less chance that it is caused by a brain tumor."

Research shows there are no structual defects present in the brain or any other part of the head in people with migraines. Neither is there a specific test to diagnose a migraine. X rays, CAT scans, and MRIs appear normal in people with migraines.

Stress can trigger or aggravate migraines. People with migraines more often tend to be what is known as a Type A personality, which is a person who is prone to be an over-achiever and compulsive.

"Most people consider stress to refer to a major event, but most harmful to emotional health are everyday stresses such as piles of laundry and a workload with no end in sight," Matlin said.

These stresses can better be eliminated by changing a hectic lifestyle. The person may need to set aside a time each day for relaxation and pleasure. Sometimes counseling may be helpful or necessary.

Accurate diagnosis is made exclusively by the physician who reviews a history of an individual's symptoms. Matlin said that migraines are one of her specialities. She recommends that a person who suffers from migraines seek a physician who specializes in the illness.

Matlin said that one of the first things she does when a patient comes to her with headaches is have her stop all self-medication.

"There is a 50 percent decrease in headaches for those who stop self-medicating," Matlin said.

Those who self-treat migraines often end up making them worse, according to Matlin. Especially risky are those who drink a lot of coffee and take Excedrin and other over-the-counter drugs that are high in caffeine. If over-the-counter or prescription pain medications are taken daily or nearly everyday, they can cause a rebound headache.

Some people who have sought medical help in the past have had side effects from the medication that was worse than the headache itself. For this reason, they think the only solution is to go to bed and stay there until the migraine goes away.

But Matlin said, "Many of the new medications eliminate the debilitating side effects of previous treatments."

Those who become nauseated with vomiting can't take oral drugs, but new self-injection medication is available. Self-injection is easier to do and allows the medication to enter the bloodstream quickly. Often the pain subsides within 15 minutes.

Nasal spray also works well. Although the directions say to tilt your head backward when using a nasal spray, Matlin has found that nasal sprays are better absorbed if your head is tipped forward. This method also eliminates the spray from irritating your throat.

Some people wrongly attribute a sinus infection as a migraine, but Matlin said that migraine headaches usually respond quickly to proper medication.

"It is no longer necessary for people to suffer from migraines. There are so many effective medications available for people to get on with their lives," Matlin said.

For more information about migraine headaches, contact the Cumberland County Extension Office at (717) 249-7220.

Are You an Overspender?

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Are you a holiday overspender?

Do you get caught up in the season?

Do you give gifts to everyone you ever met?

Do you spend more than you can really afford?

In January will your mailbox be stuffed with bills and greetings from your creditors?

If you are nodding your head yes to any of these questions, you're a holiday overspender said Debra Bryant, CFP, Penn State Cooperative Extension educator.

Do you want to change the picture this year? Here are some timely tips for curbing your overspending at the holidays from Olivia Mellan, a Washington, D.C. psychotherapist. Mellan specializes in helping people work through their conflicts over money.

- Have the courage to say to friends and loved ones that you really need to spend less on Christmas.
- Keep a spending diary, noting how you felt about the purchase as well as what you spent. Also record how many hours you had to work for what you bought.
- Determine how much you plan to spend for everyone based on what you can truly afford. Look back at your credit card bills from last year which may shock you into reducing your spending.
- When you go shopping, take a friend who is not an overspender and tell him or her that you need help sticking to your spending plan. Be honest about your plans not to overspend.
- Avoid points of temptation, such as your favorite mall or shop that automatically puts you in a buying mood.
- Find time to shop when you're not tired or stressed. You'll make more rational buying decisions if you don't wait to the last minute.
- Once you find what you want to buy, put the item on hold and walk around before making the purchase. In other words slow down the spending process.
- Try to think of new creative ways to express your love other than buying expensive gifts you can't afford. For example, send a letter telling someone how much you love them, offer to cook a meal or volunteer to baby-sit for a relative.

If you would like more information on managing your money, or ideas for how to live on less, call Debra Bryant at (717) 253-5970 ext. 239 Monday through Friday 8:30-4:30.

Food For Profit

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) – Are you a farmer who would like to have more dollars in your pocket?

Value-added products may be the answer.

Adding value means taking a raw agricultural product like milk, tomatoes, etc. and adding ingredients or processing to make a new product that is more attractive or usable by the consumer. For example, making yogurt, cheese, or ice cream from milk or making salsa or spaghetti sauce from tomatoes, jams from berries.

Usually the profit margin on these value-added products is much higher than on the raw products.

If you are interested in starting or improving the operation of a small food product business Penn State Cooperative Extension and PENNTAP are sponsoring a two-part workshop you won't want to miss. Mark the dates, Wednesday, January 20 and 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Program will be held at the Penn State Cooperative Extension meeting room in the basement of the Wayne County Courthouse, Honesdale. Cost of the program is $25 and covers both sessions. Make checks payable to "Extension Special Account" and mail to: Wayne County Cooperative Extension, 925 Court Street, Honesdale, PA 18431. Call (717) 253-5970 x 239 for more information. Deadline to register is: January 15.

Fad Diets

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Confused about what's truth and what's not in weight loss plans?

The Lycoming County Extension offers a workshop on Fad Diets: A Three Ring Circus. The program discusses the pros and cons of popular diets such as the Zone Diet, the Atkins Diet, the new Sugar Buster diet, and others.

Obesity is on the rise. If weight loss is your concern and your organization wants more information about this program, call the Lycoming Extension Office at (717) 327-2350.

Hileman Judges Sheep Show

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Joyce Hileman, Apollo, Pa. judged the Natural Colored Wool Growers Association Sheep Show at the North American International Livestock Exposition here, Nov. 19

The North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) has one of the largest sheep shows in the world. NAILE celebrates its 25th Exposition this year.

Joyce Hileman has been a livestock judge for more than 20 years. Joyce, a Penn State graduate of animal science, started out in 4-H judging teams in Crawford County, Meadville.

After graduation from Penn State, Joyce's first job was livestock herdsman at the University of Delaware.

Joyce coached 4-H judging teams there. Joyce then moved on to be Armstrong County livestock agent for many years.

Joyce, retired as agent, resides with her husband Bill and lives on their family's "Kistaco" Farm in Apollo. One of Joyce's biggest joys is working with youth livestock judging teams and judging livestock shows in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, New York, and Kentucky.

Ida's Notebook

by Ida Risser

Today is our oldest child's birthday. However, I've decided to write an article about her sister as I've already mentioned her last year.

Our middle daughter, Judy, was a very pleasant child with loads of smiles. In fact, I called her my "smile factory." She had a cute pink hand knit snow suit and people turned their heads when my little blonde walked by.

As soon as she was old enough, she joined a 4-H Club. her main interests were sewing, food, and flowers. She received ribbons in all of these categories and was an officer in the Community Club. One project that she chaired was making baby blankets for the "Visiting Nurse Association." She participated in "Capital Days" and "State Days." One of her demonstrations was called "Plan and Plant for Beauty." I remember that she even went to Michigan to give a demonstration on "French Cookery." One of my best kettles went with her but never came home again as someone took it by mistake.

She started college at Mansfield University but later transferred to Penn State in order to get the subjects that she wanted. Her summers were spent doing two different jobs to help pay for college although she received several scholarships. She graduated with a degree in food science.

After college she worked for eight years for Hershey Foods and became the manager of "New Products Development." She traveled to Canada, Belgium, and Texas on business.

Now she is a mother of two girls and lives near Atlanta, Georgia. She is a teacher's aid and spends a lot of time at her daughters' school. Recently, the teacher needed a picture of an old wood burning stove. So, Judy dashed home and found the instruction book that came with my mother's 1919 cookstove. Without old newspaper clippings, I would not be able to write this article. Saving papers must run in the family.

West Snyder FFA Presents Food For America

On Thursday, Nov. 5, the West Snyder FFA Food For America Committee went to Beaver Adams and West Beaver Elementary Schools to give presentations on the importance of each source of food in America.

Charles Kessler, Jennifer McWilliams, Rose Carper, Sandy Opdyke, Brandon Herman, Heather Hollenbach, and Heidi Good presented information on sheep, poultry, dairy cows, pigs, dairy foods, and beef. They also developed and played the "Wheel of Food" game with the elementary students.

"Wheel of Food" is a game based on the TV game show Wheel of Fortune, where all the questions are on the topic of the students' food.

Sandy Opdyke, West Snyder FFA member and SUN Area Alternate Dairy Princess, also gave a presentation on the importance of milk and dairy products in the diet. After the presentations, both elementary schools were taken to Glenn Carper's dairy farm for a tour.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

ANSWER — This is an answer for many who are searching for out-of-print and hard-to-find books. Lyn Eash doesn't remember the exact name of the company but the toll-free number is for a company that specilizes in finding the books. This is an answer for Beulah Dueck, Marilyn Patterson, Elam Ebersol, and Julie Johnson. Call 1-800-223-0540.

ANSWER — J. Hesson, Perkasie, wanted to know how to keep weeds out of raspberry brambles. Lyn Eash writes that Jerry Baker can answer this and any other yard and garden question. Esah recommends Baker's newsletter that includes a question and answer column. Write to Jerry Baker at P.O. Box 1001, Wixom, MI 48393.

ANSWER — Sara Kinsinger, Stuarts Draft, Va., has a lot of old windows with bubbles in the glass. Somebody told her there is a place where they want the glass to use it in new windows. Where? Ray Macarro of Westfield writes that he has lots of information about old glass that he will share with Sarah if she calls him at (814) 367-5537. According to Macarro, the bubbles in the glass work as a magnifying glass and can start fires in draperies that are drawn, etc.

ANSWER — According to Clyde Clark, Milan, Amos Stoltzfus, Mechanicsville, Md., should call Balanda Equipment of Palm, PA, 1-800-322-8030. Clark writes that this company sure knows how to find whatever you need and can always be relied upon.

John Deere MaxEmerge®Plus Planters

The top three yielders agree . . . there's only one planter for tough conditions

Bruce Ford of Hermiston, Ore., yielded a whopping 334 1 bushels an acre with his John Deere 1700 Planter to win first place in the No-Till Irrigated Class and the highest overall yield

Mike Scholting of Louisville, Neb., reached 239 6 bushels per acre with his John Deere 1770 Planter and top honors in the A No-Till Non-Irrigated Class

Brad Gillum of Green Castle, Mo., used a John Deere 1780 Planter to yield 231 5 bushels an acre, earning him first place in the AA No-Till Non-Irrigated Class

With beefed-up row units and a "no-till tough" design, John Deere MaxEmerge*Plus* Planters are paying off in heavy residue and hard soil. Just ask the winners in all three no-till categories of last year's National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

"Uniformity is the name of the game," stresses Mike Scholting. "The main benefit of my MaxEmerge*Plus* is equal emergence and spacing for unexcelled plant uniformity. This planter's pneumatic down-force exerts equal pressure on all the rows, including the center ones. Even on the steepest hillsides, this planter just follows the ground like a rope."

Bruce Ford agrees. "I couldn't have won the contest without my John Deere MaxEmerge*Plus* Planter. The down-force springs on this planter are a tremendous improvement. I can adjust down-pressure just by moving a single handle."

Precise seed depth and spacing like this shows up in your yields. "Other planters might do a good job," says Brad Gillum, "but there will still be doubles or skips, especially in tough conditions. Not with my MaxEmerge*Plus*. It did a superior job of placing every seed right where it was supposed to. That kind of uniformity pays off in yield, contest or no contest."

To get a firsthand look at the planting accuracy everyone is talking about, see your John Deere dealer today about a MaxEmerge*Plus* Planter.

FFA Convention Makes Connection Between Education, Future

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The celebration of the FFA's 71st year as an organization for agricultural education students attracted more than 46,000 members, advisers, and guests for the week of Nov. 11-14 to the last national FFA convention to be held in Kansas City this century.

The 1998 convention theme, "FFA — Making the Connection," symbolized the agricultural education organization's mission to prepare students to make the connection between their education and their futures, and to develop themselves into successful leaders in their communities, the agricultural industry, the nation, and the world.

Through many national FFA convention experiences, members had the unique opportunity to develop themselves as premier leaders and young professionals. The diverse line-up of motivational speakers who addressed audiences throughout the week included motivational speaker Les Brown; the world's only professional storm photographer/chaser Warren Faidley; author, speaker and historian Gerda Klein; cowboy poet Baxter Black; and sports broadcaster Robin Roberts.

The FFA National Agricultural Career Show brought 331 exhibitors to expose FFA members to a vast array of agricultural careers, programs and products. The exhibit hall covers an area larger than five football fields, representing business and industry, colleges and universities, agricultural products and services, and other diverse areas that support or are a part of the total FFA experience.

While in Kansas City, FFA members participated in a number of career development events, leadership workshops, awards ceremonies, and banquets. The American FFA Degree, the highest level of achievement for an FFA member, was awarded to 1,934 members. The FFA also recognized businesses and individuals who support the organization by awarding the Honorary American FFA Degree, Distinguished Service Awards, the H.O. Sargent Award, and VIP Citations. The convention was also a time to showcase the National FFA Foundation sponsors.

Delegates representing each state conducted official business and made recommendations to the national organization. The 468 official delegates focused on agricultural education trends, career success activities, chapter activities, communications and public relations, FFA publications, leadership and personal development, marketing and merchandising, membership recruitment and participation, national FFA convention and FFA partner development.

The National FFA Alumni Association hosted its 27th annual convention featuring the theme "Connecting the Pieces." Jana Register of Register Farms and the executive secretary of the Florida FFA Association made the highest bid of $27,400 on the alumni's live auction feature item, a 1999 customized Chevrolet Silverado Extended Cab 4x4 Short Box LS truck donated by Chevy Trucks through the National FFA Foundation. Other auction items included a one-of-a-kind Smith and Wesson Revolver, a Mossberg Shotgun, weekend getaways, country music star collectibles, an autographed football from the 1997 Champion Green Bay Packers and much more, all donated by various businesses and individuals, including FFA Alumni.

National FFA Foundation Sets New Record

For the 32nd consecutive year, the National FFA Foundation set a record level of support for FFA and agricultural education programs.

At the 71st National FFA Convention, 1998 FFA Foundation Sponsors' Board Chairman Charles Fischer announced that the Foundation had raised a total of $7.2 million in 1998 to support annual projects and programs for FFA and agricultural education — a record.

Fischer, vice president of Dow AgroServices, said the record contributions of the more than 1,000 sponsors help prepare future agricultural leaders. "As sponsors, we believe that the future success of agriculture is irreversibly tied to the quality and capabilities of the young people that enter this industry in the coming years," he said.

In addition to the annual funds raised for FFA, Fischer also announced that $5.2 million has been pledged to the "I Believe in the Future" Capital Campaign to relocate the FFA Center to Indianapolis, Ind.

Fischer introduced 1999 FFA Foundation Sponsors' Board Chairman-elect William T. Boehm, vice president, logistics, The Kroger Company. Boehm announced the 1999 Foundation theme, "FFA—Making the Connection."

Since 1944, the National FFA Foundation has provided more than $87 million to FFA members for awards, scholarships and achievement programs.

National FFA Officer Team Elected

The six student members who will lead the National FFA Organization for the 1998-1999 year were elected Nov. 14 at the 71st National FFA Convention.

Lisa Ahrens, a 20-year-old from Osage, Iowa, is the new national FFA president. Abby Dougherty, 20, of Greenwood, Inc., was elected the national FFA secretary.

Vice presidents representing each region are Andy Armbruster, 21, of Kiowa, Kan., central region; Emily Buxton, 21, of Warsaw, Ohio, eastern region; Jose' Santiago, 19, of Camuy, Puerto Rico, southern region; and James Garner, 20, of Hanford, Calif., western region. The officers will take a year-long leave of absence from college to serve their terms.

Ahrens is the daughter of Donald and Marylou Ahrens. A member of the Osage FFA Chapter, her supervised agricultural experience program (SAE) includes a corn/soybean enterprise and work experience placement at Ahrens Pioneer Seed. Her adviser is Myron Friesen. Ahrens attends Iowa State University where she is a sopho-

The national officers represent members to official in government, business, education, and agriculture. As they travel during the year, the meet with members on the local, state, and national levels.

Organization's Top Awards Go To Iowa, Wisconsin

The National FFA Organization announced the winners of its two most prestigious awards, the American Star Farmer and the American Star in Agribusiness, during the 71st National FFA Convention.

The 1998 American Star Farmer is Charles Pearce, 21, from Walworth, Wis., and the 1998 American Star in Agribusiness is Andrew Tygrett, 21, from Atalissa, Iowa.

These awards recognize students who have established profitable agricultural enterprises or agribusiness programs, demonstrated outstanding management skills, earned the American FFA Degree—the organization's highest level of accomplishment—and met other agricultural education and leadership requirements.

Each winner will receive $1,000 from the National FFA Foundation Executive Sponsor Program, in addition to the $1,000 they received as a finalist. Each of the eight star finalists will also take an agricultural tour of Costa Rica in the summer of 1999.

MAKE IT Happen! FFA

The Cedar Crest FFA recently conducted a petting zoo at one of their elementary schools. The students enjoyed petting this Holstein calf.

The Cedar Crest FFA recently held a petting zoo at Ebenezer Elementary school as part of its fall harvest day.

Several FFA members participated by talking about the animals and letting the children hold the animals. Animals that were included in the petting zoo were a calf, goats, ducklings and baby chickens, pigs, rabbits, and kittens. The children enjoyed holding and petting the animals.

FFA members who participated included Janelle Wartluft, Nate Artz, Amanda Heffelfinger, B.J. Atkins, Jason Shirk, Hannah Bomgardner, Chet Brubaker, Jason Balsbaugh, Amanda Martin, Beth Kreider, Jeremy Balsbaugh, and Erin Templin.

Local Student Receives American FFA Degree

Joanna Wilson, Volant, has a lot to be proud of. On Nov. 14 she received the highest degree that can be bestowed upon an FFA member, in Kansas City—her American FFA degree.

Her hard work and dedication to the FFA during high school and serving as state officer truly helped her to accomplish her goals.

Joanna Wilson

To earn the American Degree you must have earned or invested at least $10,000 through supervised agricultural experience programs. Wilson's projects included raising dairy cows and market swine. She also did a work experience program on a local dairy farm. She considers herself a hard worker and has learned that without hard work and dedication, she wouldn't be where she is today.

Joanna also received a letter stating that she had received a $1,000 scholarship from the National FFA. The Ford Division – Ford Motor Company sponsors the scholarship. The Ford Truck scholarship is one of 1,200 awarded through the National FFA Scholarship Program this year. More than 200 corporate sponsors generously contribute more than $1.5 million to support this program.

This is the 15th year that the scholarships have been made available through the National FFA Foundation by business and industry sponsors to reward and encourage excellence and enable students to pursue their educational goals.

Scholarship recipients were selected from more than 7,500 applicants across the country. Selections were based on the applicant's academic record, FFA and other school and community activities, supervised agricultural experience program in agricultural education, career plans, and financial need.

Joanna attends Penn State and plans to major in agricultural education. She enjoyed teaching young adults about agriculture during her year as a state officer and would like to continue that as a career. Her parents are David and Linda Wilson and her FFA adviser at Wilmington High School is Dave Ward.

FFA Convention Makes Connection Between Education, Future

Plant City, Fla., was named the recipient of the H.O. Sargent Award for FFA members. He received $500 and a plaque.

The H.O. Sargent award existed in the New Farmers of America (NFA), the former organization for African-American agriculture students, before NFA was merged with FFA in 1965. This is the second year for FFA members to apply for this award.

Keene has been an active member of the FFA for five years. His involvement in the promotion of diversity began because he had three relatives who were mentally handicapped and he wanted to show other people their positive attitudes. He established a club at his school called "Buddies in Growing," or "B.I.G.," which teams special needs students with regular education students for school activities. The trainable mentally handicapped (TMH) students have increased chapter membership and proudly wear their FFA jackets at various activities.

"Having the TMH students present at our meetings give our chapter the opportunity to learn about positive attitudes from them," Keene said. "These students are without a doubt the most enthusiastic members present."

"Barrett has always made my students feel welcome and accepted in class, when he sees them in the halls, at lunch or at FFA meetings," said Sandy Denham, TMH teacher at Plant City High School. "He has been instrumental in my students' successes."

The National FFA Organization established the H.O. Sargent Award for nonmembers in 1995 to recognize the NFA and its place in the history of the FFA. This particular award is open to all people, both FFA members and nonmembers, and is sponsored by Merial, Ltd., as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. Applications are available through the National FFA Organization.

Award For Diversity

The National FFA Organization presented the H.O. Sargent Award at the 71st National FFA Convention to recognize citizens who have achieved and promoted diversity in agricultural education and the FFA. Gary E. Moore, Raleigh, N.C., North Carolina State University; Theresa Watson, Walkersville, Md., Walkersville High School; and W.G. Parker, Muskogee, Okla. retired educators for agricultural programs, are the recipients of this year's award.

The H.O. Sargent Award existed in the New Farmers of America (NFA), the former organization for African-American agriculture students, before NFA was incorporated into FFA in 1965. This award was presented again in 1995 and will continue as an annual recognition program. All applicants have been involved in agricultural education and have implemented new programs to promote agricultural diversity. Each winner received a plaque and national recognition on Nov. 13 at the national FFA convention.

The National FFA Organization established the H.O. Sargent Award for nonmembers in 1995 to remember the NFA and recognize its place in the history of FFA. This particular award is open to all people, both FFA members and nonmembers, and is sponsored by Merial, Ltd., as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Following is a list of awards from the national convention.

Hudson Valley Laboratory Celebrates Anniversary

HIGHLAND, N.Y. – Threatening skies and on-and-off again rain did little to dampen the spirits and festive mood of more than 230 people who showed up to help the Hudson Valley Laboratory celebrate its 75th Anniversary on Tuesday, July 7.

Guest visited laboratories, viewed various exhibits and displays, walked, seemingly oblivious to the wet grass and intermittent drizzle, through the research orchards.

Weather—along with its effect on this year's fruit crop—was just one of many subjects discussed during the orchard tour. Among the victims, the Bosc pear, injured by frost; cherries that split due to excessive moisture; and apple trees that had a higher incidence of scab than usual, also due to excessive moisture. One participant, shaking his head, said, "This year, Mother Nature is taking no prisoners."

Praise for the HVL ran high among those in attendance. Bill Yonnette, manager of Hudson Valley Farms, commented, "These guys help me a lot. Sometimes, I'm here very day asking questions. We'll have lunch together once in awhile, and they'll come out to my orchard at the drop of a hat!"

Alice Tipp, an Ulster County legislator, remarked, "This is a fantastic program, and they do wonderful things for the growers. It's just a great resource for both the community and the farmers.:

After the various tours and laboratory demonstrations, lab superintendent Dave Rosenberger kicked off the formal program. He introduced the staff and noted that Dick Straub, who has the longest tenure of all the HVL employees, is able to run the Entomology program and still play golf and handball. Rosenberger made some brief remarks about work at the Hudson Valley Lab, adding that without support from Cornell and the Geneva Station, they would not be able to operate.

Dave Fraleigh, president of the Hudson Valley Research Laboratory Inc., offered a short history of the Hudson Valley Lab, and Tony Moriello, chairman of the New York Apple Research and Development Program, talked about "Fruitgrower Perspectives on Agricultural Research and Extension."

Director of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Jim Hunter, noted that at the "Hudson Valley Lab has played a vital role in keeping agriculture strong in Eastern New York, and the work done at Geneva and Ithaca has been an important part of this effort." He talked briefly about the challenges of the past 25 years he came to help celebrate the lab's 50th anniversary, and outlined some of the challenges for the next 25 years including the Fruit Quality Protection Act, marketing issues, and the globalization of agriculture.

Dean of Cornell University College of Agricultural and Life Sciences, Daryl Lund praised the Hudson Valley Lab, calling it "a good example of cooperation and collaboration between the public and private sectors," and he said, "This type of partnership is a model for the past and a direction for the future." He stressed the importance of revolution in biology, stating that "Cornell is making an investment in this revolution in this revolution."

The next morning, Rosenberger summarized the event. "The 75th Anniversary Celebration at the Hudson Valley Lab was a great success. It provided an opportunity for the scientists and staff at the Lab to showcase the facility and explain some of their on-going research programs. Perhaps more importantly, it served to bring the agricultural community of eastern New York together for an enjoyable social event. It was a real honor to have Dr. Jim Hunter and Dean Daryl Lund present to celebrate with us.

Hudson Valley Lab was established in May 1923 to enable Cornell University's New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y. to establish a field station in downstate New York for agricultural research. The purpose was "for the experimental study of the problems of increasing the production and controlling the diseases and injurious insects of the horticultural crops of the Hudson River Valley:

Today Hudson Valley Lab consists of more than 7,000 square feet of laboratory space and 20 acres of research orchards The research staff specializes in tree fruit horticulture, plant pathology, and entomology, and is focused on improving the production of fruit and vegetable crops grown in eastern New York

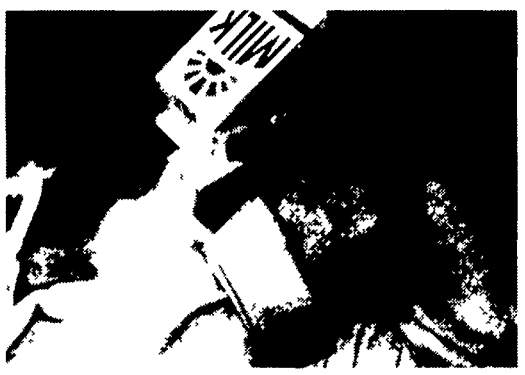
Checkoff is Working for Dairy Farmers

To increase the demand for milk and help kids form life-long milk-drinking habits, the award-winning national advertising campaign, "got milk?" took on a new twist in 1998.

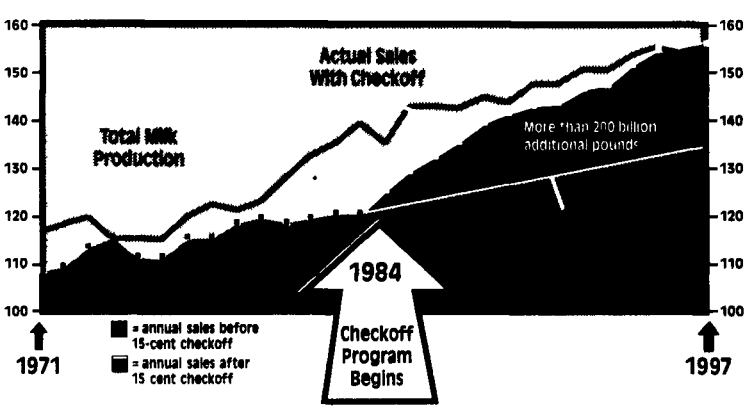
- Raises awareness of milk among kids by answering the question "What happens in a world without milk?"
- Written for kids by kids and positions milk as a "cool" beverage.
- Seen everyday during after-school programming and Saturday mornings all year long during popular programs on kid stations such as FOX and Nickelodeon.



Total Milk Sales on the Rise

The dairy checkoff promotion program was started by dairy farmers in 1984 with one purpose – to increase the demand for dairy products and it's doing just that!

- Total milk sales have increased by 29% since 1984
- Per capita consumption of all dairy products has increased 11 5% since 1984 That's an increase of 72 pounds more dairy per person!
- In 1984, the surplus was 16.8 billion pounds – today there is virtually no surplus.



Make mine cold!

To address the age-old concern of warm milk in schools, dairy farmer dollars assisted school food service personnel in identifying and correcting milk-handling barriers.

- Conducted milk temperature study and surveyed kids which validated milk is not always served cold, chocolate milk is seldom a beverage choice at school and 8-ounces of milk is not enough.
- Implemented full-scale school milk promotion entitled "got milk. Make Mine Cold!" to give milk an appealing image to kids.
- Promoted chocolate milk to school food service directors to increase serving opportunities.
- Investigating innovative serving equipment and packaging to further improve the serving of milk in schools.

To increase cheese consumption, dairy farmers launched the largest-ever national cheese advertising and promotion campaign in early 1998 entitled "Behold the Power of Cheese."

- Designed to touch the hearts and taste buds of consumers.
- Demonstrates that people will go to nearly any length to get their hands on cheese.
- Seen in prime-time during shows such as Friends, NYPD Blue and Dateline NBC and in 21 popular magazines, such as Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, People and Bon Appetite.

A. A fan and heater located in the upper sidewall forces hot air through an even column of wet grain above

B. When the column of grain above has dried to a predetermined temperature level, mechanical dump chutes are opened letting the hot dried grain fall to a cooling and storage area below.

C. Outside air from the cooling fan captures heat from the hot dried grain, and rises through the new layer of wet grain above.

FAX 814-234-1698

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association announces it is seeking applications for the Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Award. The contest is open to any Pennsylvania and National Holstein Association member between the ages of 21-40 (as of December 31, 1998) who owns or has management responsibilities for a herd of cows. The herd must be on official DHIA test.

The award is to recognize accomplishments of Young Holstein Breeders and to encourage them to establish goals that will aid in their management decisions to help achieve a profitable dairy operation.

The winning entry form Pennsylvania will receive a complementary room at the 1999 State Convention and Convention Banquet Tickets. They will also have their entry sent on for National competition.

Applications for Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Award are available by contacting

National Animal Identification Plan Embarked

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Industry representatives from over 40 states reached consensus on various issues needed for the initiation of national livestock identification programs during the National Farm Animal Identification Symposium, Nov. 8-10, 1998, here.

Throughout the week, participants learned about the latest technology available in animal identification, national identification programs in other countries and industry initiatives in the U.S. involving animal identification. The sense of urgency for improved animal identification became more evident as the industry became better informed of the implications that "ID" has with international trade policies under GATT and NAFTA.

The last day of the symposium offered breakout groups for participants to deliberate on issues necessary to develop a national plan for animal identification. Working groups were divided by animal species — cattle, swine and other. In the other species group there were representatives from the sheep, equine and llama industry.

Richard Keene, president of the Holstein Association, USA, said, "In order to address the issues of export market, genetic evaluation, health, and food safety, value based marketing and inbreeding in stud genetics from a dairy standpoint, we need to have a strong ID system in place."

A beef cattle rancher from Montana and past president of National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA), Jimmie Watson said, "We need to measure how cattle are yielding — tenderness, grade, and performance in general — and we can do this with a permanent individual animal ID."

The livestock group with approximately 100 participants broke out into three subgroups to focus on specifics of identification numbering systems, identification methods and date elements of the identification information system.

Bucky Gwartney, program manager, NCBA, reported from the ID numbers subgroup, which suggested that the national program adopt the "American ID" numbering system established by the Council on Dairy Cattle Breeding. Also, the subgroup decided that there needs to be a private entity for allocating the American ID numbers and being responsible for assigning blocks of numbers and maintaining a record to ensure their uniqueness across organizations that would administer the identification programs.

The ID methods subgroup agreed that the national number must be attached to the animal with an official identification tag, reported to Neil Hammerschmidt, chairman of the Livestock Conservation Institute's Livestock Identification committee. Also, the subgroup agreed that Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) transponders, that meet standards set by the International Organization of Standardization (ISO), be recognized as official methods of identification.

Consensus was reached, reported Paul Miller, National Dairy Herd Improvement Association, in the data requirements subgroup on minimum requirements for a national system. The group decided that both premise and individual animal ID numbers should be provided for in the system. The animal's national number would be the "key" to the system or database, and because of the uniqueness throughout the United States. Owner information such as the name of owner, address and telephone number would be referenced to a premises identification.

The swine species working group decided the need for animal identification focused on disease control, valued feedback from the rest of the chain to the producer and food safety. According to Paul Sundberg, director of veterinary issues, National Pork Producers Council, no one system will meet everyone's needs. "Flexibility and cost-effectiveness for producers is a prerequisite in a national identification plan," he said.

During the swine species breakout group, participants focused on short term and long term needs and objectives for a national animal identification system. As a short term method, the group urged the facilitation of state implementation of a premise ID system. The group realized that technology may give the ability to cost-effectively, individually identify animals in the future.

According to Sundberg, tracking animals in a national database will need to be industry driven, if done. "There must be a demonstrated need and economic incentive," he said.

Participants in the other species working group discussed the importance of a national animal identification system in emergency situations, import/export, disease, performance, fraud and placement. The group decided on premises identification or individual and premises as the level of identification.

According to Paul Rodgers, American Sheep Industry Association, the group decided that there needs to be a permanent unique ID number per animal and that they felt like the technology was there for this. It was also reported by Rodgers, that animals should be identified as soon as possible after birth, but before the animal leaves the premises.

"We had a tremendously valuable symposium. The accomplishments of the working groups provide a consensus on key industry issues as well as resolve to several key components required to build national programs. Our challenge now is to maintain momentum to put actions in place that will truly deliver national systems," concluded Hammerschmidt.

Scenic Mountain Co-Op Pays Patronage Dividend

FORKSVILLE (Sullivan Co.) – Patronage dividend checks were presented to members of Scenic Mountain Milk Producer Cooperative at their annual meeting held at the Bonanza Restaurant in Wysox. LaVerne McCarty of Forksville, co-op business manager was pleased to announce that the dividend checks exceeded the co-op member dues for the past year while maintaining adequate equity in the co-op. Scenic Mountain Co-op has consistently paid a 13th check since they were organized.

McCarty stated that dairy farmers that produce quality milk and are interested in joining the co-op should contact him. The cooperative has an excellent market providing their members with above average prices and cost saving programs.

James Patsos of United Ag Services presented outstanding quality awards to the top two herds in for 1998. They were Claude Arnold, Ulster, and James and Georgie Broschart, Dushore.

Pastos spoke to the group concerning current market conditions and milk price trends for the next few months.

Scenic Mountain Milk Producers Cooperative Inc., is affiliated with United Ag Services of 12 North Park Street, Seneca Falls, NY, 13148. United provides management, accounting quality control, and employee and producer payroll services for small to medium sized cooperatives and agricultural businesses as well as individual farmers.

In the Degelman tradition of quality rock removal equipment, here is the RR1500 rock rake, another example of Degelman's continuing commitment to excellence.

The RR1500 rock rake includes a unique auto-fold system which provides safe, easy transport no wider than most tractors (8 feet in transport position) with full use of the 14 foot width in the working position. And with hydraulic angling, it can take full advantage of the 10 to 30 degree angling range.

Degelman Rock Rakes are excellent machines for grooming fairways and conditioning soil for the construction of golf courses. It leaves a beautiful final finish preparing the course for seeding. They are also used for reclaiming gravel on gravel roads. And the heavy duty construction and quality workmanship means that it is built to last.

The SIGNATURE 6000 may be the only rock picker you'll ever need. This is the most rugged rock picker on the market. Some of the SIGNATURE 6000 features include:

Solid Shaft Grill Tines with Replaceable Grill Tips - This modern grill is easier to maintain, has longer life giving you less down time. The unique grill provides five feet of clean sifting and virtually jamless performance.

Grated Hopper Bottom - We use spring steel straps in the hopper, engineered to bounce back in shape.

Hydraulic Drive - The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.

Reel Assembly - The three paddle reel has a large diameter, hard sufaced teeth and heavy duty paddles.

Flotation Tires - The 16.5L x 16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction.

Swing Pole - Easy to maneuver in both working or transport position.

KINZE ROW UNITS
We Sell Complete Replacement Row Units At Our Parts Dept.

THE KEY TO EARLY SEED GERMINATION

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement" Simply put, it's the toughest, most dependable system in the field today

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed It's the ideal environment for the emerging seedling

Each row unit is independently adjustable for depth and down pressure Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need Down pressure? Your choice Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions

Bring Your Corn and Bean Planter Meters To Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. and Have Tested On Our Computerized Test Stand For Maximum Planting Performance.

3036 and 3042 Reel Auggie® Mixers

With New, Larger Mixing Capacities of 360 and 420 Cubic Feet

The new 3036 and 3042 Reel Auggies are designed to take the rugged, day-in, day-out mixer use on today's larger dairy and beef operations. The Reel Auggie will give a fast, thorough and gentle mix. Utilizing the patented Reel design but with new standard features such as:

- 1/4 of 1% load cell scale system
- Fully enclosed oil bath style rear drive to better handle truck mounting.
- 22" high by 36" wide discharge for faster unloading
- High/low axle setting
- Large 68" diameter reel with 20", sectional flighted, lower and upper augers.

Knight Manufacturing's 3036 and 3042 Reel Auggies...not only bigger, but better too!

...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...

- 24 ft one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 28 GPM 3 diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

With the high cost of chemicals, the right Sprayer is needed

Upwardly Mobile

The New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader will help you be more productive no matter what the application. The long wheelbase makes it more stable so you can get better lift capacity than ordinary loaders. And it can go uphill with an empty bucket and come down with a full one. Don't try that with an ordinary loader.

Stop in today to see what makes LX 485 Super Boom so tough.

On The Mark, Get Set, Grow!

The 6100 Series Rigid And Vertical Fold Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement. And that's exactly what you'll get with the White 6100 Series planters. Our pull-type planters feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed. Its low air pressure, edge-drop seed discs and short, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination.

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.

Our 4, 6, 8 and 12 row planters have the flexibility to meet most tillage practices both now and in the future. They're built rugged with a massive 7" x 7" frame and strong, welded-tongue design to handle the demands of heavy residue. Add a 6900 splitter attachment for interplant capability.

This season get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best. Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today.

DYNASHIFT TRANSMISSION

From Massey Ferguson
32 Speeds with the best features of manual and powershift design

Simple concept, simple design.

The Dynashift transmission features a smooth, 4-speed powershift matched to a rugged, 4x2, fully synchronized gearbox.

The results are truly greater than the sum of the parts.

Like a synchromesh.

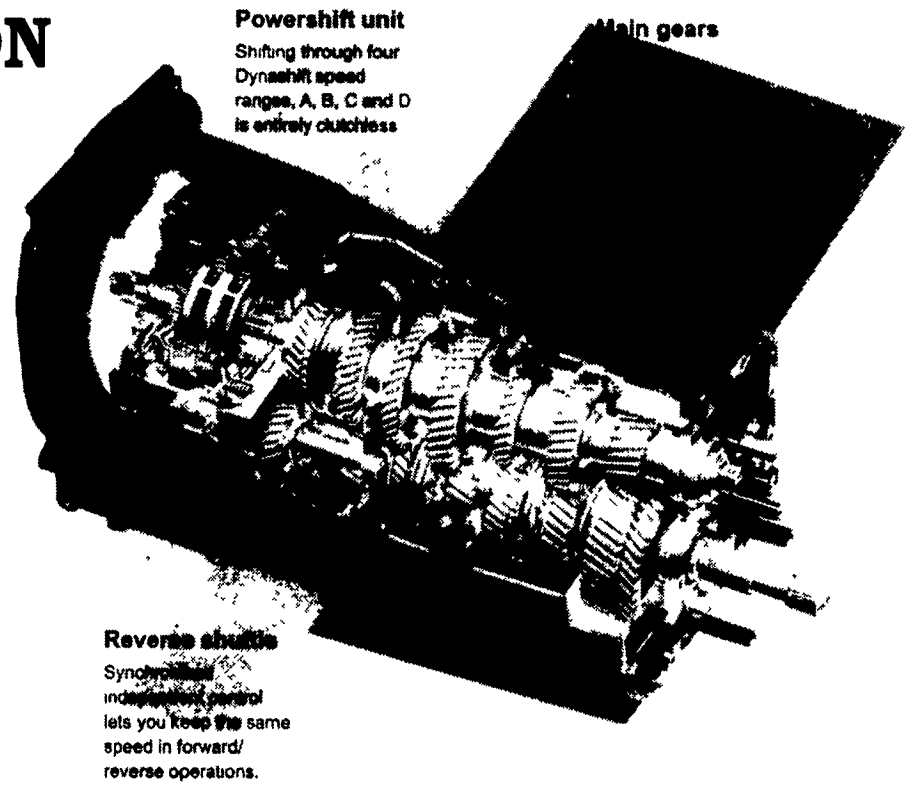
You get the low power loss and reliability of an 8 speed manual transmission. More of the flywheel horsepower is available for use in all other tractor functions. Up to half the power loss of most full powershift tractors.

Like a powershift.

Get the ease-of-operation and productivity of four no-clutch powershifts. Each of the four powershifts gives you an ideal 17% increase in speed.

Like a shuttle.

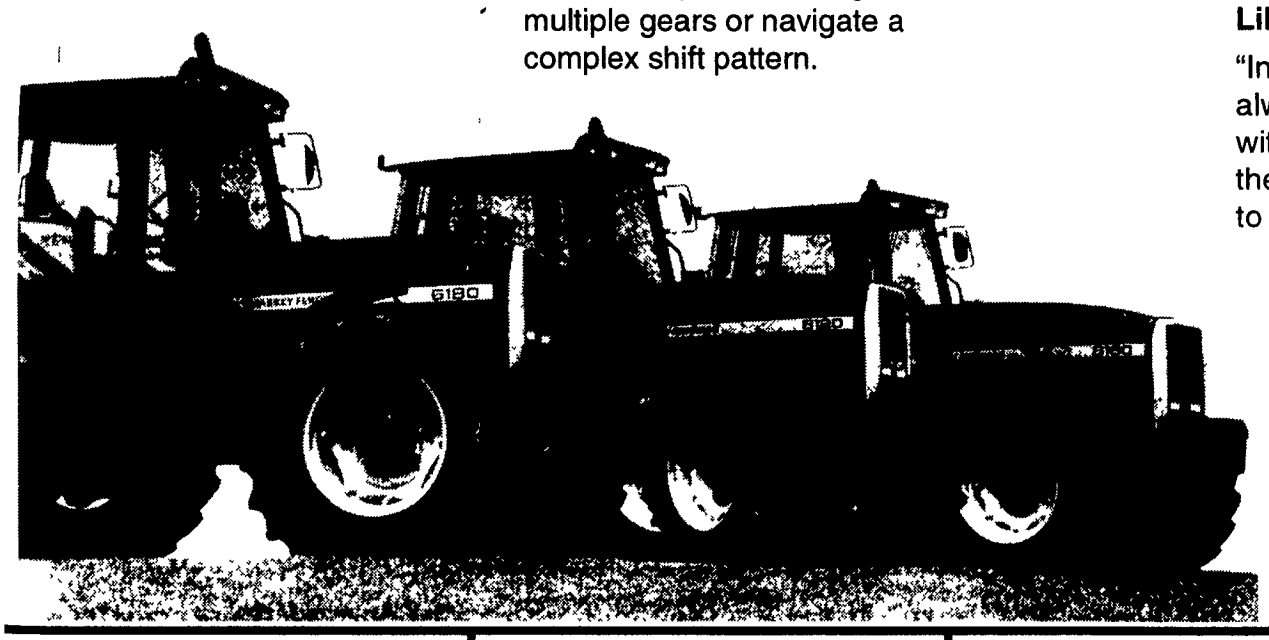
The synchronized independent shuttle lets you quickly reverse directions in any of the 32 gears with one quick shift. There's no need to sequence through multiple gears or navigate a complex shift pattern.



Powershift unit
Shifting through four Dynashift speed ranges, A, B, C and D is entirely clutchless
Main gears
Reverse shuttle
Synchronized independent control lets you keep the same speed in forward/ reverse operations.

Like no other transmission.

"Intelligent overlap" means you can always select a gear to shift-on-the-go with a 17% speed change. And you get the highest number of gears in the 2.5 to 7.5 mph (4 to 12 kph) working range.



MASSEY-FERGUSON

Dynashift is standard on 8100 Series tractors, optional on 6100 Series tractors.

What Does Your Feed Company Do For Research?

At Consolidated Nutrition research is not taken lightly. Our product development starts where most feed company's end with information gleaned from research journals and the like. With a research staff larger than most University's we set up and conduct research trials at our facilities in Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan, independent research may be contracted with a university, and then field trials. Once an idea passes all of these tests, it is then introduced to you.

Consolidated Nutrition has more cannulated cows than any other company in the industry. Feed samples are put directly in the cow's rumen to measure digestion rates and efficiencies.

Currently forage samples from area herds have been collected and are being studied to help us better balance rations around this year's forages!

Hernley's Stages Grand Opening

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Last week Hernley's Farm Equipment Inc. staged a grand opening of its new 13,000 square foot show room, customer service center, and maintenance shop here.

About 450 customers attended the grand opening, which included a catered meal at noon.

The new building, finished Sept. 15 by Speedwell Construction, Manheim, will allow Hernley's to provide "top-notch service and products to all our customers," said Duane Hernley, president.

The building sits on five acres along Rt. 230, Elizabethtown. The new headquarters offers better visibility and access to customers, Hernley noted.

At the grand opening, company officers from Agco Corp. in Duluth, Ga. were on hand to provide information about products and services. Jim Seaver, Agco executive vice president of sales, spoke about Agco's commitment to customers.

The new shop, which employs eight people, features up-to-date equipment. Hernley's sells Gleaner combines, Hesston hay equipment, and White and Agco-Allis tractors. The company has been in business since 1986.

Bale Accumulator Improves Performance, Lowers Costs

ATLANTA, Ga. — Agco Hesston introduces a bale accumulator that improves baling performance and lowers operating costs while increasing operator convenience.

The Model 4720 bale accumulator, designed to work with the mid-size Model 4755 baler, allows the baler operator to collect one to five bales, 4 feet 11 inches to 8 feet long and unload them anywhere, without ever leaving the tractor cab. This saves loading time, labor costs and field travel, which leads to less soil compaction due to less trips over the field. It is also strong enough to handle dry or high moisture bales.

The 4720 is also designed to be used as either a three-bale or five-bale accumulator. In the three-bale mode, the wings on the side cart are folded up and the screen on the control console is programmed to show the side carts as being full when only one bale is shifted to each side. This allows the accumulator to be used in fields with narrow windrow spacing and to unload bales without placing them on adjacent windrows.

In the five-bale mode, two bales can be placed on each side cart, while a fifth bale is placed on the center cart. In either mode, each side cart can be independently unloaded, or both carts can be unloaded at the same time.

To unload all bales the operator unloads both side carts, shifts the center bale to either side, and unloads that side cart again.

Baxter Farms Sells, Services Agco Tractors

GEORGETOWN, Del. – Baxter Farms, Inc. has been serving Georgetown area farmers for 41 years with quality equipment, extensive parts availability, and experienced equipment maintenance and repair services.

The dealership offers the same superior customer support for articulated, four wheel-drive AgcoStar® tractors available with 350 and 425 horsepower high torque diesel engines.

"This new product line has the features and accessories that meet the needs of our customers," said Jimmy Baxter, co-owner. "Adding this product line is also in keeping with our goal of serving as a one-stop resource for agricultural equipment and maintaining overall customer satisfaction."

AgcoStar is a well-recognized brand with a reputation for quality and reliability, and customers and friends throughout the area are invited to stop by for a first hand look at this equipment.

The dealership will stock replacement parts for present owners of AgcoStar products, and maintain a parts inventory for new equipment purchasers.

Lehr Retires After Almost 40 Years In Feed Industry

Ray Lehr

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Ray Lehr has seen tremendous changes in the livestock feed industry in nearly 40 years. He retires in December as senior vice president of the Ag Products Division of Pennfield Corporation.

Lehr has seen sales of dairy feed tonnage increase five-fold since 1982, and the emergence of Pennfield as one of the leading dairy feed suppliers in the Northeast.

In 1982, Lehr, a Penn State animal science graduate, returned to Pennsylvania to join Lancaster-based Pennfield Corporation as vice president, feed marketing after holding a variety of positions with Central Soya in Fort Wayne, Ind. Pennfield Corporation had been formed only 11 years earlier from the merger of D.E. Horn & Company and Miller & Bushong, two family-held feed businesses with roots going back to the turn of the century. Under Lehr's leadership, Pennfield continued to grow through the acquisition of other regional feed mills and manufacturers.

"The greatest changes in the dairy industry over the past 30 years are the result of technology," Lehr said, citing the advent of computerization – now applied to everything from the balancing of rations to the manufacturing of feed. "It still is amazing to me to see how everything from formulation to ingredient mixing to loading is handled by computer at our Mount Joy feed mill.

"One of the technological innovations at Pennfield that I'm proud of was simply adding two-way radios to our trucks. This allowed us to offer round-the-clock, 24-hour-a-day feed deliveries and really made our customers happy."

Lehr points out the "astounding increases in milk production" during his career, noting as he has watched dairy herd averages almost double from 16,000 to 30,000 pounds and more. "Feed conversion rates for poultry and hogs have also been cut in half."

Another major trend in the livestock industry, Lehr notes, is the contracting and integration of poultry and hog production in the United States. Eventually, Lehr foresees the dairy industry following a similar path for more efficiency and price stability.

"The trend in consolidation of feed manufacturers will continue too," Lehr said. "Following the lead of banks, auto manufacturers, and other industries, there will be fewer large national manufacturers and fewer regional companies, too." Those regional companies which remain strong will also do so by consolidating and acquiring other smaller concerns, Lehr predicts, while pointing out this is how Pennfield continues to grow and prosper.

Lehr is turning over the reins and (and long hours) as Pennfield's senior vice president, Ag Products Division to his second-in-command, Robert J. "Bob" Buehler. Buehler joined Pennfield in 1996 after having worked for Purina Mills and Southern States Cooperative. He is an animal science graduate of S.U.N.Y. at Cobleskill and Cornell University and has a master's degree in animal nutrition from Virginia Tech.

Robert J. "Bob" Buehler

Butler Joins Pennfield Feeds

Matthew T. Butler has joined Pennfield Corporation's Ag Products Division as manager of joint ventures/emerging markets, a newly created position.

Butler will be responsible for developing and managing joint ventures with independent livestock feed manufacturers and retailers primarily in the Virginia and North Carolina market areas.

Matthew T. Butler

A 1989 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University with a degree in animal science business and nutrition, Butler previously served as regional sales manager for Diamond V Mills and as district sales manager for Agrisorbants Product Group after employment with Southern States Cooperative and Coley Embryological Sciences.

He is a director of the Virginia State Feed and Grain Association and past chairman of the animal welfare committee of the American Feed Industry Association.

New Team Member

Pennfield Corporation has announced the addition of Stacey Sands to their feed marketing sales team.

Sands was graduated from Penn State University with a bachelor's degree in dairy and animal science, management/production. She will handle dairy feed sales for Pennfield in the Tunkhannock, Montrose, area.

Kuhn Introduces Powertiller

VERNON, N.Y. — A new line of Powertiller, the EL 32, has been added to the current Powertiller lines from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., Vernon, New York USA, and Kuhn S.A., Saverne, France.

The Kuhn EL 32 Powertiller is an entirely new, economically priced, 30 hp tiller line expressly designed to meet the needs of farmers and growers with small and compact tractors. Three sizes of tillers are available of 42 inches, 50 inches and 60 inches. These tillers are designed to be easily offset from 14 to 17 inches. They also feature automatic chain tensioning and easily replaceable tines.

Kuhn offers 39 Powertiller models with widths from 3 feet to 13 feet and horsepower ranges from 30 to 200 horsepower.

The Kuhn EL 32 Powertiller is an entirely new, economically priced, 30 hp tiller line expressly designed to meet the needs of farmers and growers with small and compact tractors.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

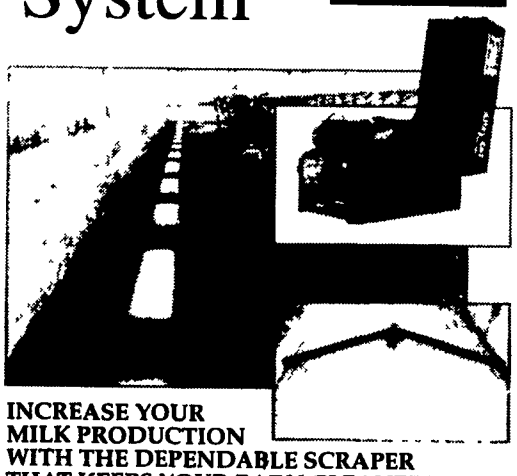
Alley Cat™ Cable Scraper System

YOUR ALL-IN-ONE FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT SOURCE!

J-STAR



INCREASE YOUR MILK PRODUCTION WITH THE DEPENDABLE SCRAPER THAT KEEPS YOUR BARN CLEANER!

A cleaner barn means a healthier, better producing herd. The Alley Cat's proven "V"-shaped blade moves large volumes of manure at a safe 7' per minute in 7' to 14' wide alleys. It automatically folds together for the return route The system features extra strength long-life 3/8" stainless steel cable for added dependability Plus its programmable timing feature cleans according to your - and your cows' - schedule But the real secret to the Alley Cat's reliable performance is in its powerful and efficient drive The drive system can pull up to eight scraper blades and clean up to 880' of alley length

Put less wear and tear on your tractor or skid loader, and start saving time and money with the Cable Scraper System that out cleans them all - the Alley Cat

WE U.P.S. Daily

Announcing New Products for Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers.
With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content; Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animals fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its Soybean Exchange Program
As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products. We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

IN ALUMINUM BODIES
EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

ROLLING HERD AVERAGE 23,000 LBS.

For this Chester County dairy farm, the family in family farm is really obvious. Not only do Samuel and Marian Stoltzfus take a special interest in their cows, their three children, Jay Richard 13, Beverly 12, and Andrea 7, do too. Checking the DHIA records to see how their favorite cows are doing or checking calf ID reports to anticipate future cow family possibilities are all part of what these Stoltzfus youths call fun.

Milking 71 registered and grade Holsteins under the Chester-Plane prefix, rolling herd average production is at 23,000 pounds of milk with individual records to 35,000 pounds. Right now, the herd is being moved to a modern dairy barn that sits on 13 acres between route 30 and the main road into Coatesville. The Stoltzfus family started to buy the dairy herd 15 years ago and now they have purchased their farm. They also rent 300 acres for crop production and nutrient management.

A TMR feeding program now utilizes Purina's Proteus concentrate and high moisture corn. Samuel is especially pleased with Purina feeds and service. "I have fed Purina feeds all my life to all my dairy animals from calves, heifers, and dry cows to the milking herd," Samuel said. I wouldn't feed anything else. I'm satisfied with production and have no complaints about service.

"I have also visited their research farm and this farm gives the company a great advantage. Whenever they have a feed it has been tested before it is put on the market. They don't try it out on you. It's down pat before it gets to the farmer."

Purina representative Doug High says it is a real pleasure to work with the young Stoltzfus family because it has been the cows that have paid the bills and allowed them to buy the herd and now buy a farm. The Stoltzfus family is quick to give credit to others and the Lord for the support they have received along the way.
